Foreword

"Far above the toil and tumult . . ." stands Garinger, our school of opportunity. In a short one hundred and eighty days, we have done more than learn—we have shared the ecstatic moments of the winning touchdown, the ever-impending disaster of exams, and the growing pride in Garinger's structural beauty.

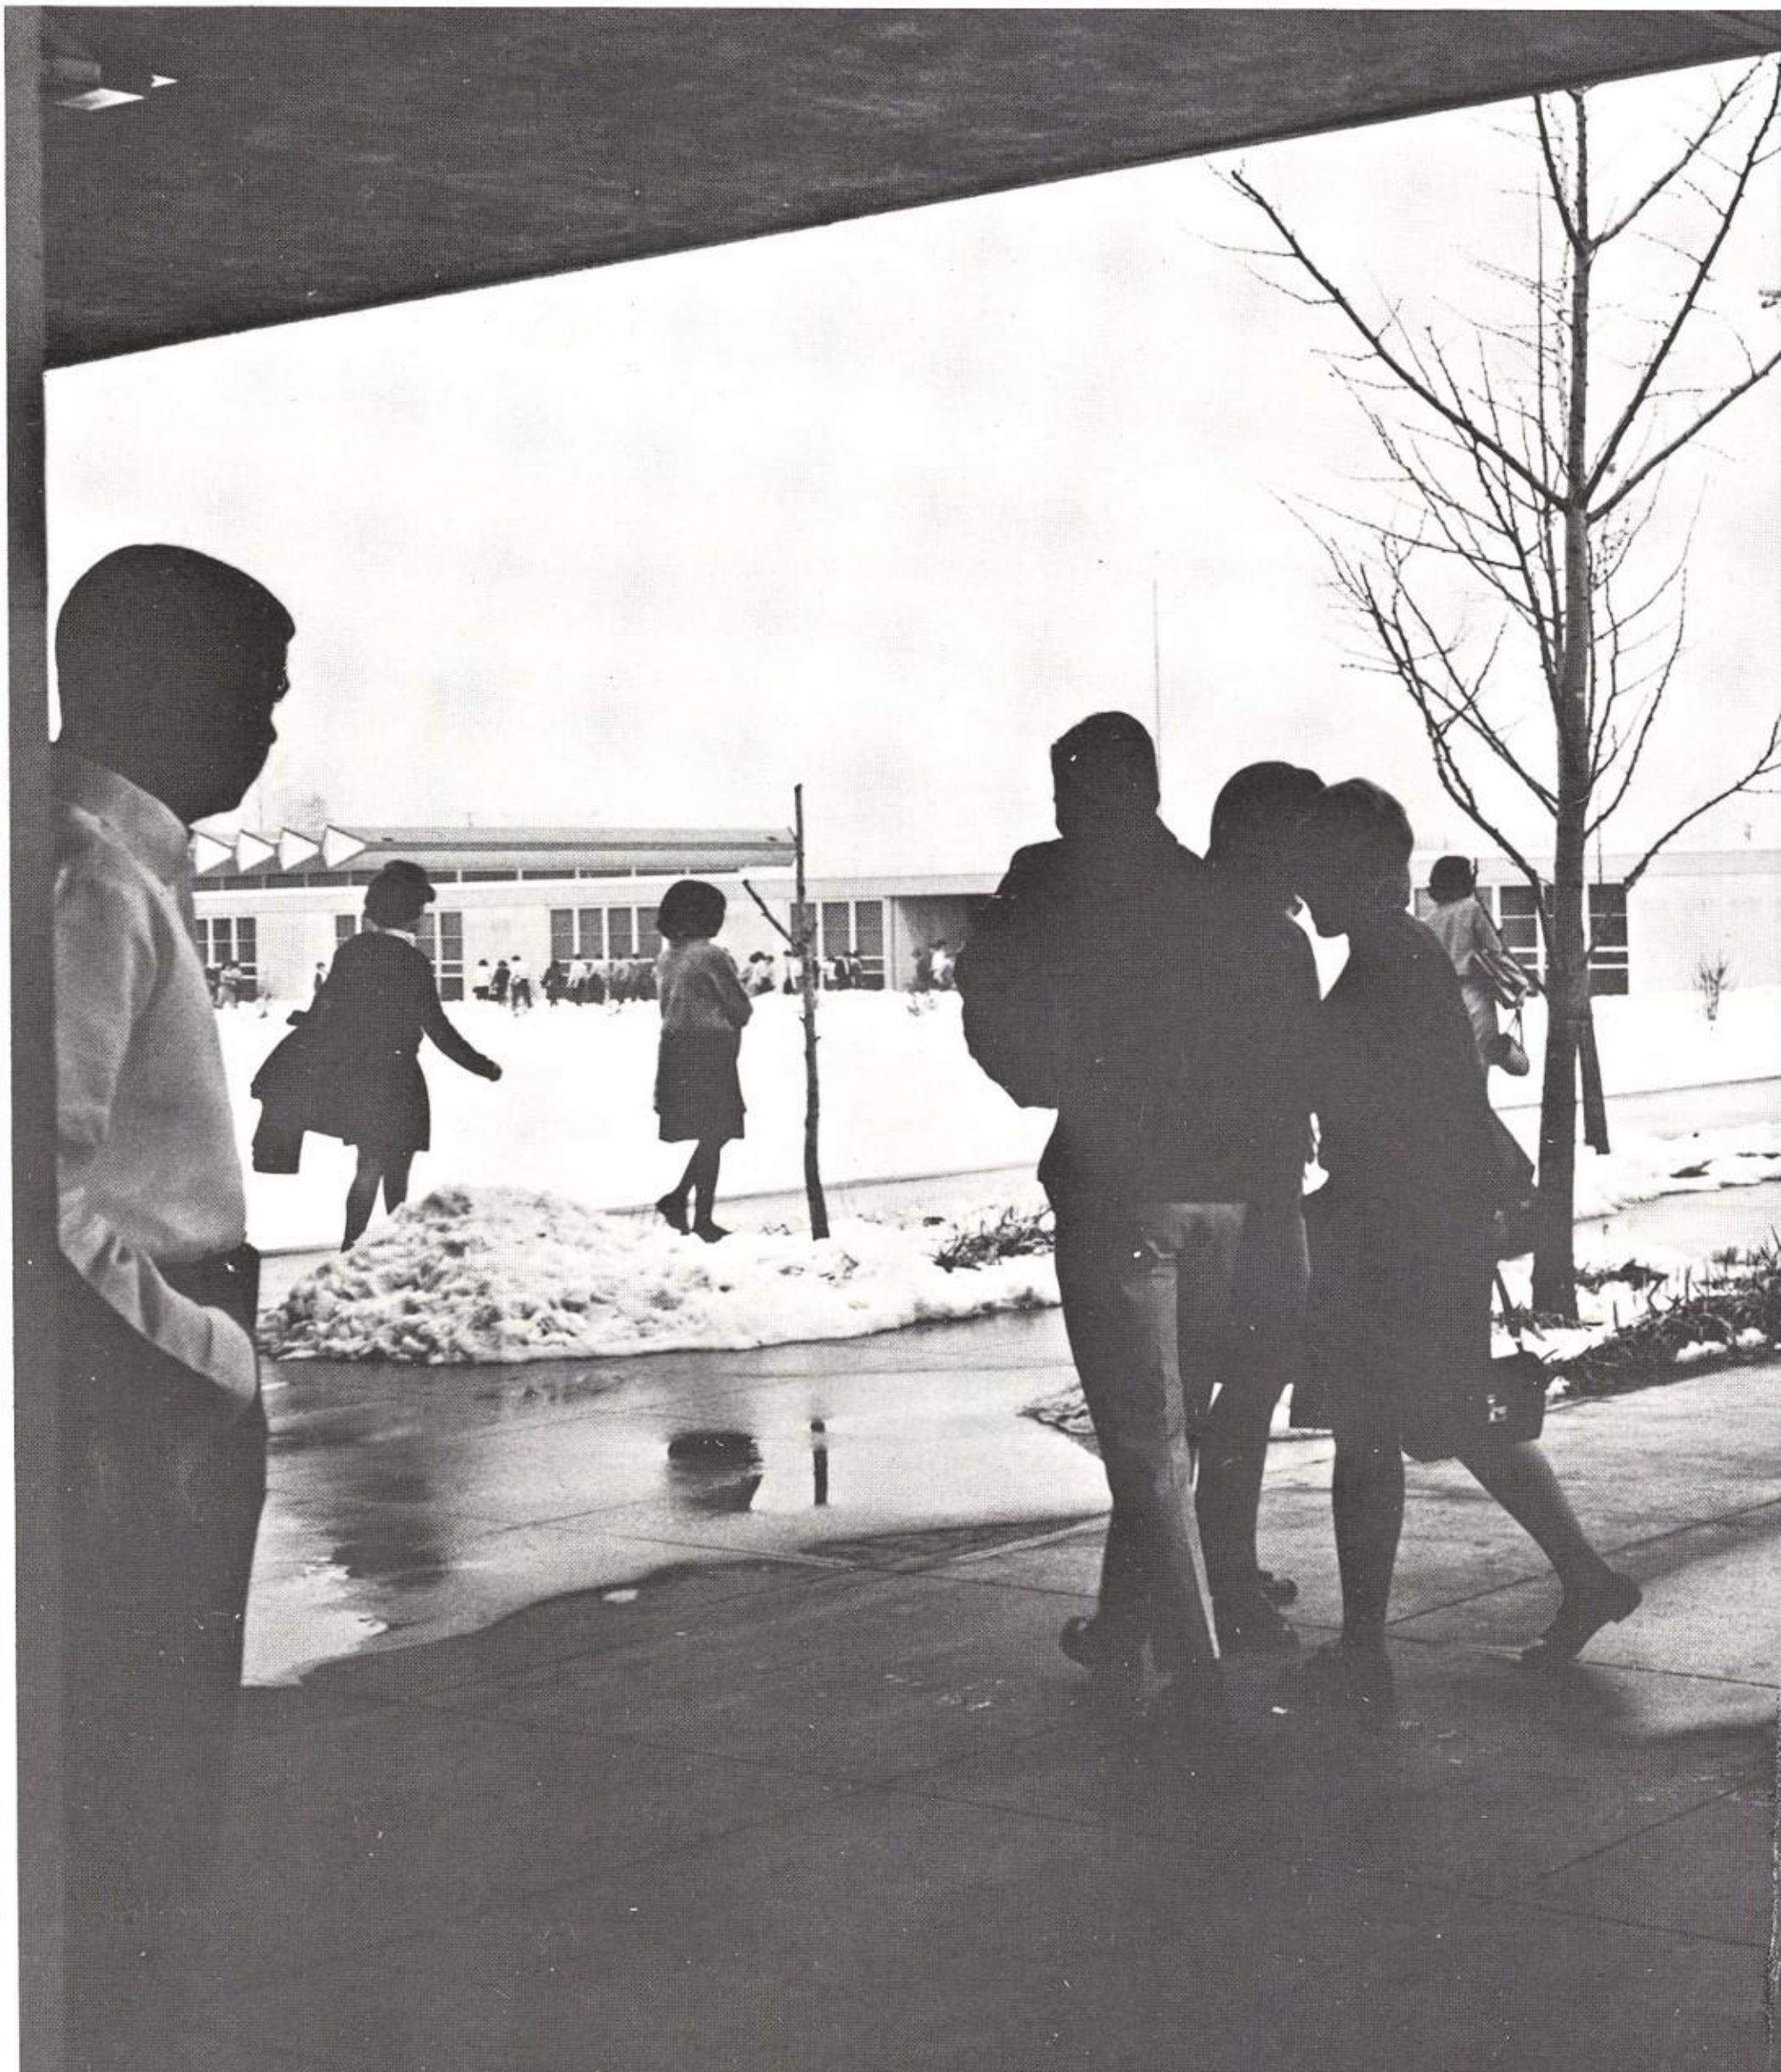
Realizing the difference in our senior, junior, and sophomore years, we think of the opportunities of each—the privilege of eating in the cafeteria pit, the thrill of decorating for the Junior-Senior, and the excitement of driving for the first time.

For some, this is the finale of three wonderful and eventful years; for others, it is a period of realization of knowledge. For many, it is only the beginning of a rewarding future at G.H.S.

The Snips and Cuts staff sincerely hopes it has captured all the moments that each student will want most to remember.

Garinger is more than a school . . .

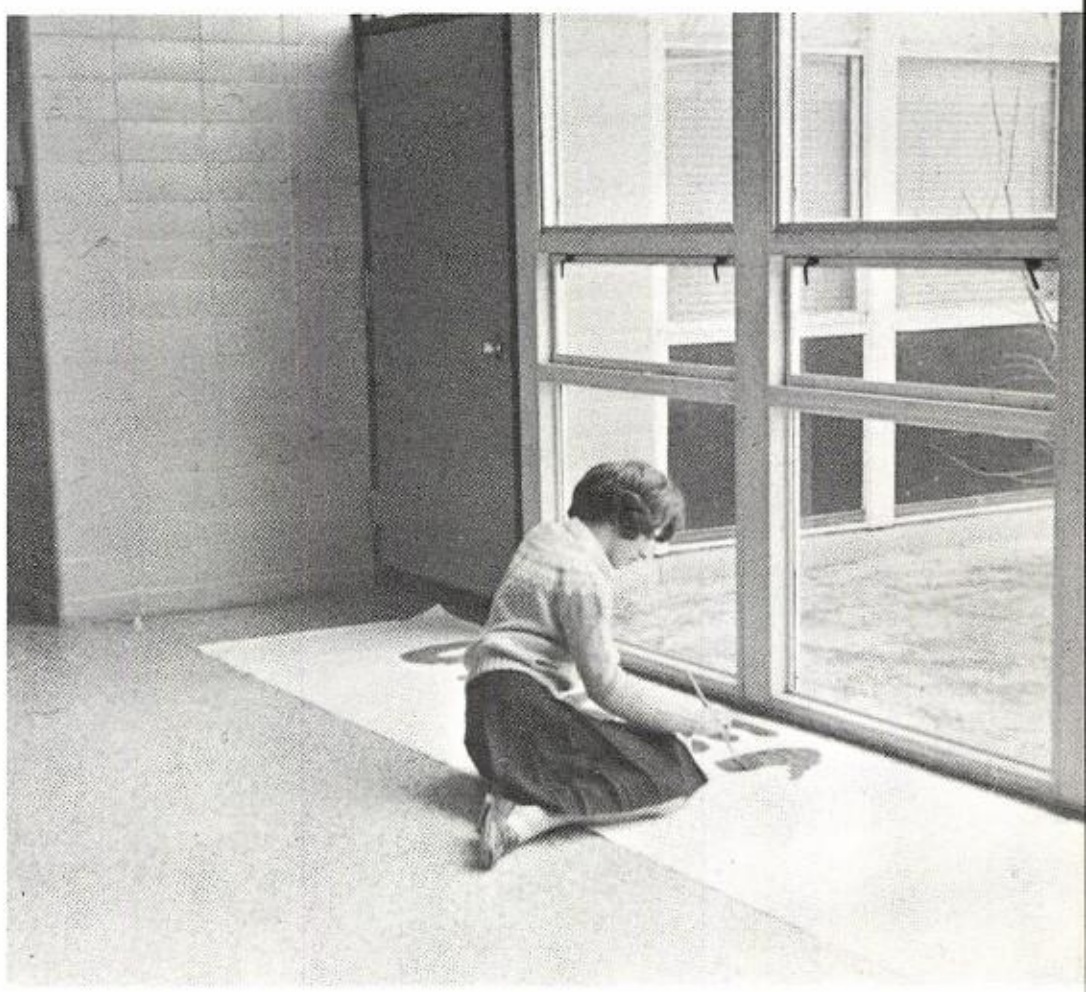
Garinger is a busy world of individual hopes and dreams, of working together to attain common goals.



It is more, even, than a beautiful campus. Garinger is alive with the hopes, fears, and—above all—the dreams, of each individual who makes up the student world in which we live.

Here each Wildcat has many opportunities —not only scholastically, but also socially.

In three short years, Garinger comes to mean something special to each person. To the faculty, Garinger offers the opportunity to provide guidance and understanding; to the student—the opportunity to obtain knowledge, to participate in extracurricular activities around the school, and to compete in sports.

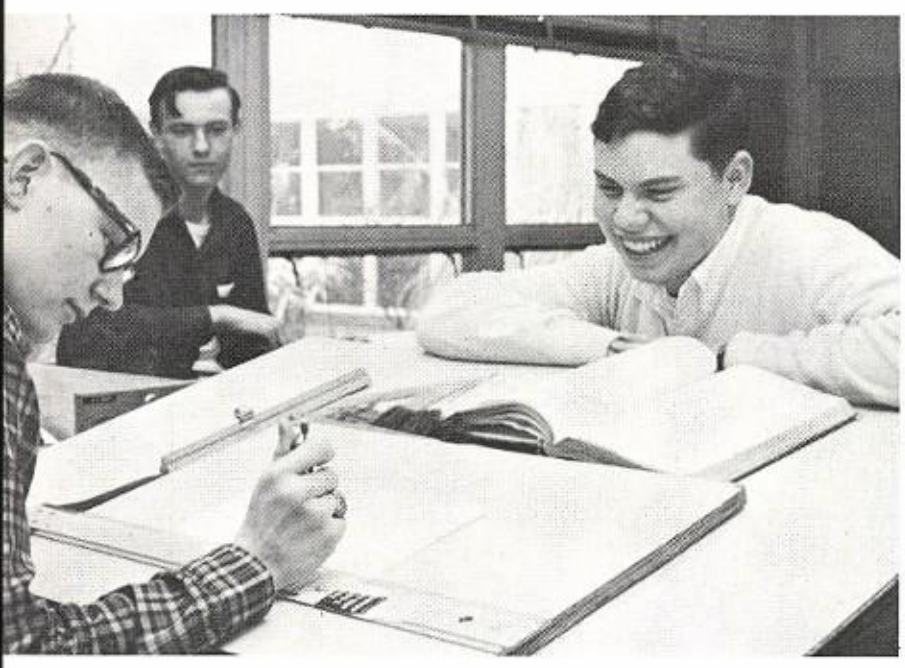


Students may find a quiet corner to work on dance preparations.

Study is an important part of a Garinger student's day.

Here you will find quiet seclusion . . .

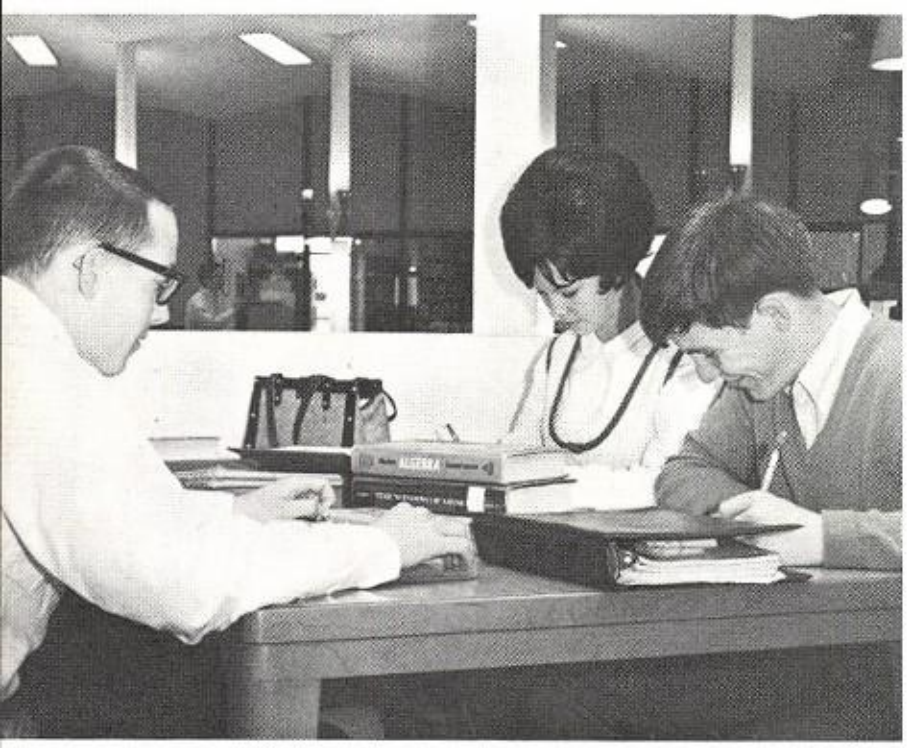
young minds at work . . .



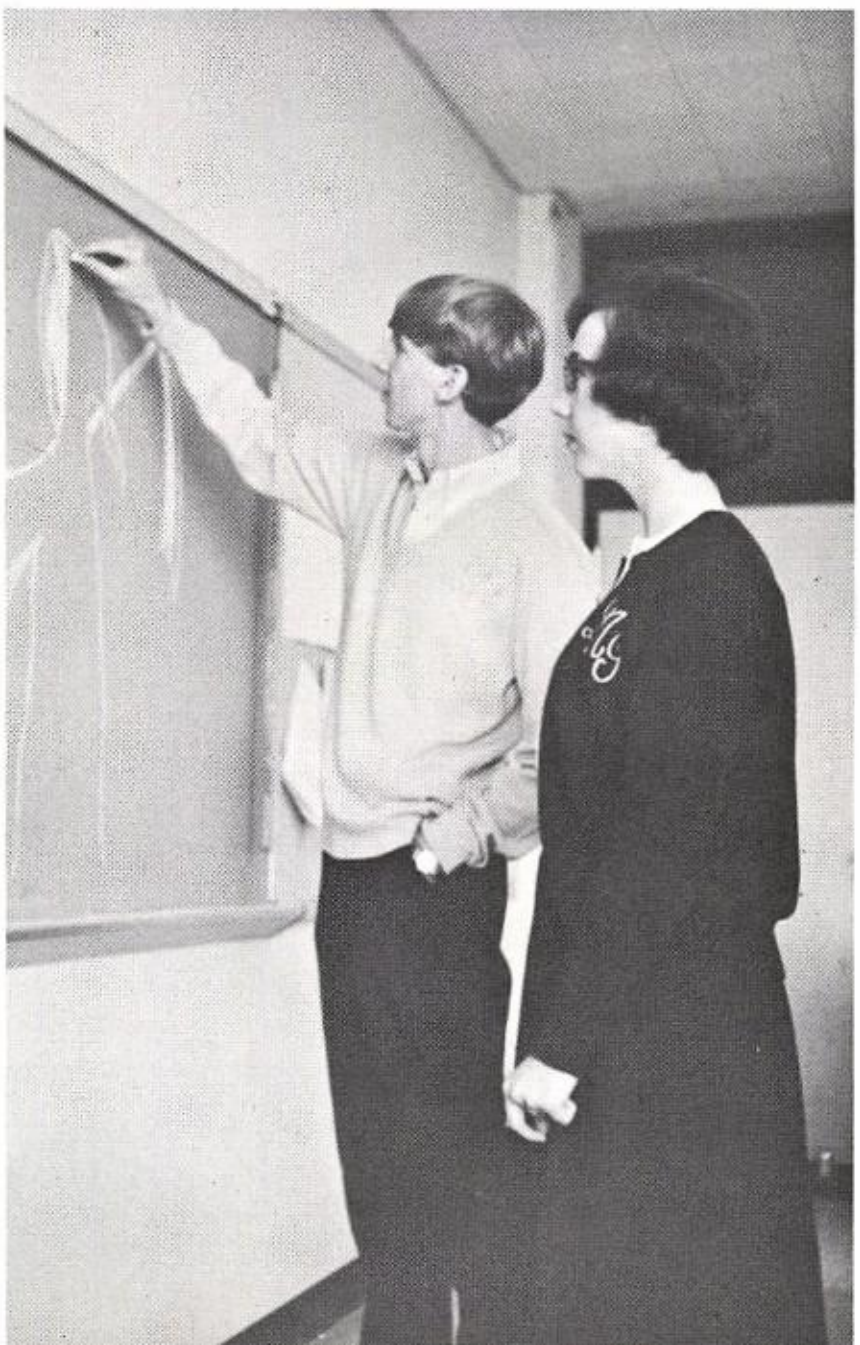
Students learn together, in mechanical drawing classes, skills which will aid them in their life's work.

Our school of opportunity offers Wildcats many outlets for ambition. Each student is given the chance to search for his or her special scholastic talent, whether it be chemistry, foreign language, math, or any other of the outstanding departments in our educational structure.

The library gives students an opportunity to study and do individual research.



Classrooms give students an opportunity to demonstrate newly-acquired knowledge.



Whether it is in a classroom, music room, or on the football field, guidance is an important factor in Garinger's broadening educational experience.

School of Opportunity

Dedication

With his warm smile and his deep understanding of high school students, he is a familiar and welcome figure at basketball games, school dances, and all school functions. With his sincere determination to see each job well done, his effort touches the lives of all Garinger students.

For his ability to be near whenever a student needs him,
For his sincere interest in the success of all Garinger's activities,
And for his efforts beyond the specific demands of his position,
We, on behalf of the student body, proudly and affectionately dedicate the nineteen hundred and sixty-six edition of Snips and Cuts to

Mr. James Taylor

Mrs. Frances Hawn and members of the Centrusa Club enjoy an induction dinner at the Barclay Cafeteria.

Howard Boger, Eddie Thompson, Dennis Yandle, and Mr. Edwards scrutinize the globe in World Geography.

Administration

Among Garinger students' many opportunities is that of learning under the experienced leadership and mature guidance of those who make up our school administration.

Mr. Edward Sanders, principal of Garinger, is responsible for the proper functioning of all school departments. When top-level administrative action is required, Mr. Sanders' long experience and considerate approach result in fair and wise decisions. He can often be seen in the midst of a group of laughing, talking students. He is respected and admired by students as well as teachers at Garinger—and rightly so.

Miss Marian Reed is an assistant principal and has as her job improvement of instruction methods and materials. She supervises faculty activities and works with the master schedule as well as individual scheduling.

Mr. Jack Stern, also an assistant principal, is in charge of bus scheduling and bus drivers. He keeps attendance for the entire school, and has the sometimes unpleasant responsibility of school discipline.

Opportunity

to learn

Of all our opportunities, that of learning from those who have preceded us down the sometimes thorny path toward education is perhaps the most meaningful. We learn not only by doing, but also by example and precept. To the faculty members who have led and labored, curbed and inspired, we owe a debt that can only be repaid by whatever success we are capable of achieving—and by the development of intellect, individuality, and character.

English

The sophomore English courses are designed to acquaint the student with a variety of literary selections. Included in the course of study are works of Charles Dickens, William Shakespeare, and Tennyson's Idylls of the King. Greek mythology is also studied thoroughly, which is an aid to the student in his future studies in literature. Some classes study Cyrano de Bergerac and certain works by John Steinbeck. This is decided by the individual teachers. Also an aim of the sophomore English course is the development of the student's ability in grammar usage and creative writing.

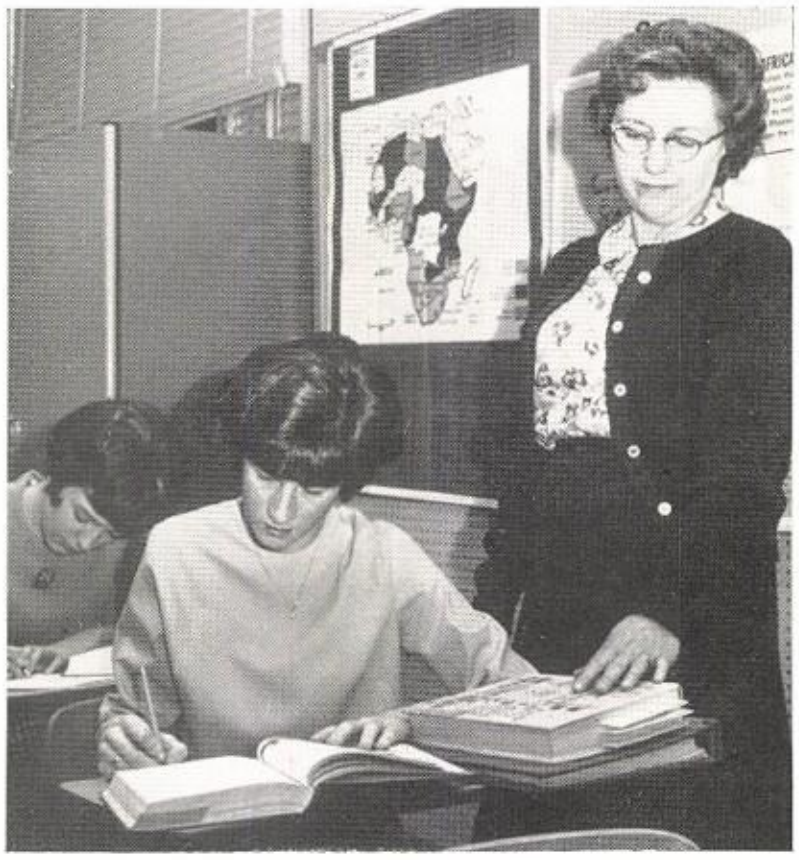
The classes in junior English concentrate on the study of American literature, learning about its development from colonial times up to the present. The student is also instructed in research methods and develops a facility for writing expository themes which, it is hoped, will aid him in his studies the following year.

The course in senior English emphasizes the study of British literature, particularly the works of William Shakespeare. The study leads the student up to modern British writers. Practice in research techniques is afforded the student in this course, too.

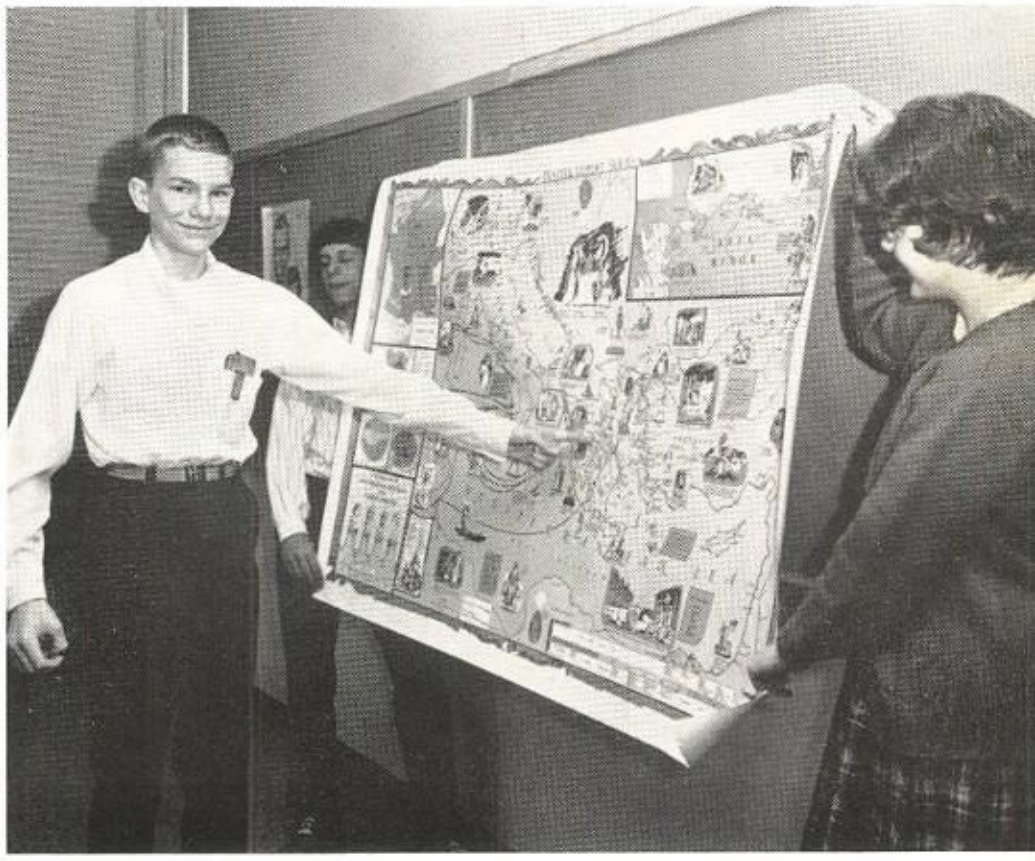
Students in the Bible courses study the Bible from two aspects: one as a great work of literature, and the other, which is given more emphasis as a source of truths which are valuable when applied to everyday living.

Spiritual guidance as well as educational value is sought in Garinger's Bible classes. Miss Robinson and Donna Beatty contemplate a Biblical illustration.

"We do study some of the time!" Mrs. Humm gives Mary Jane Forsythe some assistance in grammar.



"Go ahead, just ask me what this is!" As Stephen Lee and Diane Stinson hold up the map, Jeff Harrison points out the location of the temple of Apollo.



Penny White, Bill Hackney, and Barbara Gaddy act out a scene from THE MAYOR OF CASTERBRIDGE in Miss Broughton's senior English class.

Oh, come on—Frenchmen don't look that bad! These senior French students prefer to remain anonymous for obvious reasons.

Do these faces indicate that Miss Cabot's Spanish class doesn't understand Spanish?

Miss Clegg's Latin students pay strict attention as a sentence is translated for them.

Foreign Languages

The foreign language courses offered at Garinger include three years of Spanish, four years of Latin, and four years of French.

In the first year of each of these three languages, the student is taught the fundamentals of grammar and begins to enlarge his vocabulary. With the aid of tapes in the language laboratory, the student develops a correct pronunciation.

The second year of French, Spanish, and Latin teaches the student more difficult grammar and helps to build his vocabulary. The student of French or Spanish is introduced to reading in the language, while the Latin student becomes acquainted with parallel reading.

The third year of French and Spanish is one in which study is concentrated on literature. The student learns to analyze the literary passages which he studies and becomes acquainted with many famous writers. The third year course also deals with advanced grammar and emphasizes especially the spoken language, with the student receiving practice in class discussions. Third-year Latin students also study literature, especially the speeches of Cicero and the works of Virgil.

In the fourth year of French and Latin, the student continues his studies in literature. The French student's work includes writing, reading to be done outside of the classroom, and practice in conversation in the classroom, while the Latin student develops an understanding of the culture of the Roman civilization.

What? The Black Sea in an American History class! Mr. Ingold points it out to Susan McCorkle and Jay Barnes.

History

Besides modern world history and American history, which are required social studies, Garinger offers elective courses in geography, economics, current affairs, sociology, and a research seminar to interested students.

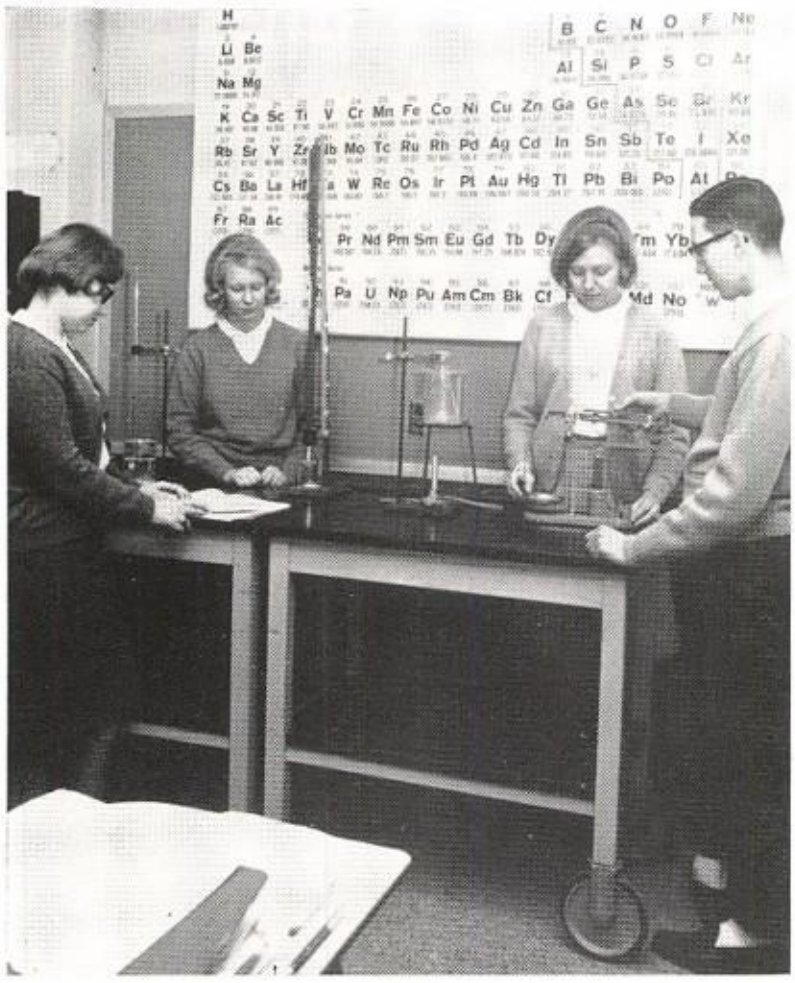
The modern history course has as its principal aim acquainting the students with facts about man's advancement socially, economically, and culturally, from prehistoric times to the present. Modern history helps the individual student gain a greater insight into periods of history in which he is most interested.

American history students study the principles of democracy from the colonization of America to the present. Current affairs acquaints the student with the relationship between past and current history. Economics deals with principles and problems of the American economy. Sociology is a study of basic principles and techniques of analyzing societies and social problems.

In Garinger's history classes, students are encouraged to do as much outside reading as possible. Research papers, book reports, and current events help students to gain a clear understanding of past, present, as well as future events which are essential to evaluating happenings in the world around us.

"I give up. What's the answer?" Joel Caldwell asks Larry Roberts and Becky Berry as Mrs. Lewis looks on.

"Oh, come on, Mr. Edwards. That much for an A?" Gary Heite seems to be pleased with the geography grades that Mr. Edwards shows him.



"Liz, get your thumb off the scale!" Scott Weaver playfully scolds Elizabeth Idol, while Barbara Triplett and Jeanette Willis perform a titration experiment.

Let's see now—is that mitosis or meiosis? Mary Anne Mills and Charles Ducey, members of Mrs. Cathey's Biology II class, study models of the stages in cell division.

Anybody ever ask Peggy Curtis how it feels to be the only girl in a Physics class? Peggy, Bill Barnes, and Mike Edwards look on as Mr. Smith demonstrates a law of physics.

Science

In addition to Biology I, which is required of all students, Garinger offers four elective courses in science. Most college-bound students choose Chemistry I, which gives them a fundamental concept of the subject, mostly in the inorganic field. The student gains knowledge of the activity and properties based on the periodic table, the theory of the atom, Dalton's and Boyle's gas laws, and how the structure of the atom determines bonding in the formation of compounds. In laboratory experiments the student is able to apply theory to practical problems.

Superior students considering majoring in a science in college can select Chemistry II, Biology II, or Physics. Biology II and Chemistry II are laboratory courses which enable students to investigate and to experiment with their own ideas. Biology II is an advance study of the relationships which exist between organisms in nature. Chemistry II is designed to give an extensive study of qualitative and quantitative analysis and organic chemistry, with the use of the analytical balances. Physics consists of the study of mechanics, matter, sound, light, heat, electricity, magnetism, electronics, quantum optics, and nuclear and atomic physics.

Is Elementary Mathematical Analysis really this interesting? Mrs. McKinnon aids Rose Green with any problems she might have.

Mathematics

Miss Watts assists Jan Gardner and Dunnie Keistler as they work geometry problems at the board.

Garinger's mathematics courses are of three classifications: general mathematics, business mathematics, and college-preparatory courses. For the student whose formal education will end with his graduation, courses in general mathematics are offered. These courses are intended to help the student in the fundamentals of arithmetic. He is taught to apply these fundamentals to practical problems.

Courses in business mathematics are offered to the student whose intentions are to enter the business field after his graduation. In these courses the student practices the fundamentals of mathematics and progresses to a study of the banking system, making tax reports, and other practical aspects of business.

Because the college-bound student requires a different type of mathematics course, certain courses offered at Garinger are especially adapted to his needs. The student begins his studies with two years of algebra, which are interrupted by a course in plane geometry. The purpose of the algebra course is to discipline the student for further studies in mathematics and to introduce him to the use of logical thought processes in his work. In the course of plane geometry the student takes basic axioms and postulates and uses them to prove theorems and problems.

After the two courses of algebra, the superior student may decide to continue his studies with Algebra III—trigonometry and even elementary mathematical analysis, which is the most advanced mathematics course offered at Garinger.

"Charlene Jones, stop pouring water and bring on the food!" Susan Roberts, Janie Simpson, and Shirley Kitchens wait patiently as Brenda serves.

For every girl who will eventually be a homemaker, or for the girl who looks forward to a career as a home economist, Garinger's home arts department offers valuable training.

Three one-year courses are offered. Family Living Education gives the student a basic understanding in dealing with problems that may arise in the family. By composing a family budget, each girl gains an awareness of the necessities and luxuries of family life. Preparation for guidance and care of children is taught. Home Economics I is a general study of various courses, providing a sound knowledge of the fine arts of homemaking. Home Economics II is a more advanced study.

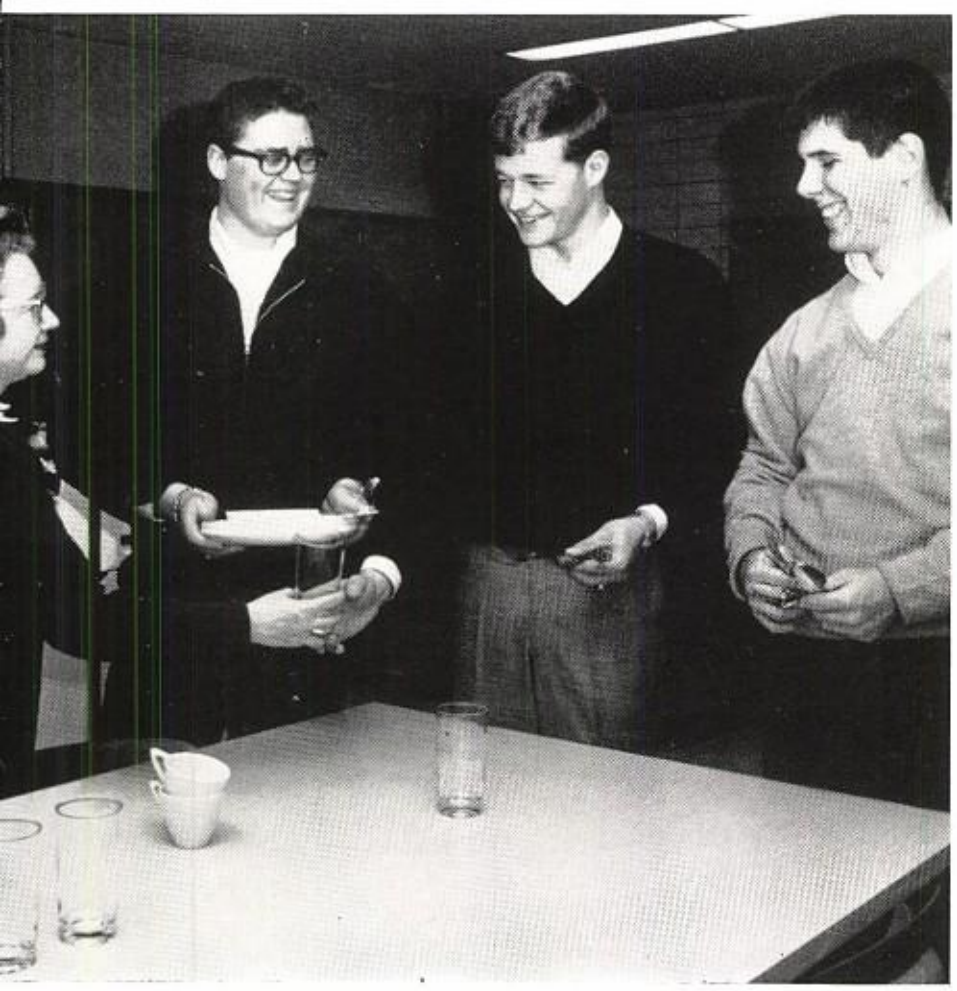
Food and clothing are two of the semester courses. In Food, instructions are given in meal planning, preparation, and sewing, not only for everyday family use but for parties and banquets. The importance of a "square" meal diet is stressed. Several times a year students have an opportunity to act as hostesses at teas and other social events. Clothing teaches the proper selection, construction, and care of clothes. The most immediate result of home economics training for girls is the attractive outfits students make for themselves and often wear to school.

Boys are not overlooked in this area. Home Arts for Boys, a semester course, gives valuable experience in managing a household, cooking meals, and babysitting.

The Home Arts Department has as its goal the guiding of students toward a happier and more efficient approach to life.

Home Arts

"Now remember, Tommy, this is a glass!" Jim Wilson, Tommy Wingate, and Lew Mullinax, supervised by Mrs. Cruse, master the art of setting a table.



"What are you trying to sew there, Pam—your finger?" Pam Hoover is shown at the sewing machine as Mrs. Boyd and Cecelia Cappas look on.

Dennis Cannon and his trombone make beautiful music together in band.

Get ready, get set, go! Several members of the band seem to be all ready to play.

MUSIC ARTS

A student wishing to study vocal music at Garinger can study either of two courses, choir or chorus. In order to become a member of the Garinger choir, however, he must audition. Having gained admission to the choir or chorus, the student is able to take part in assemblies and also in community projects. Members of the choir and chorus, in addition to receiving training in voice, are also instructed in theory and music appreciation.

Students who become members of the Garinger band follow a well-rounded course of study. They receive instruction in marching and also performing music in other classifications. Band members perform at football games, where their music adds excitement to the evening, and at pep rallies in the Garinger gym. The band also takes part in the Carrousel Parade and other activities.

Members of the orchestra receive instruction individually and as a group. The course is an interesting one, with many rewards for the student. It develops mental alertness in the student and improves his ability to follow directions implicitly. The student often acquires a greater appreciation of fine music. As a member of the orchestra the student's skill with his particular instrument increases, but perhaps even more important is the fact that he learns to cooperate with others in order to achieve greater virtuosity.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC—Mr. Sanders directs the members of his chorus as they sing.

Art

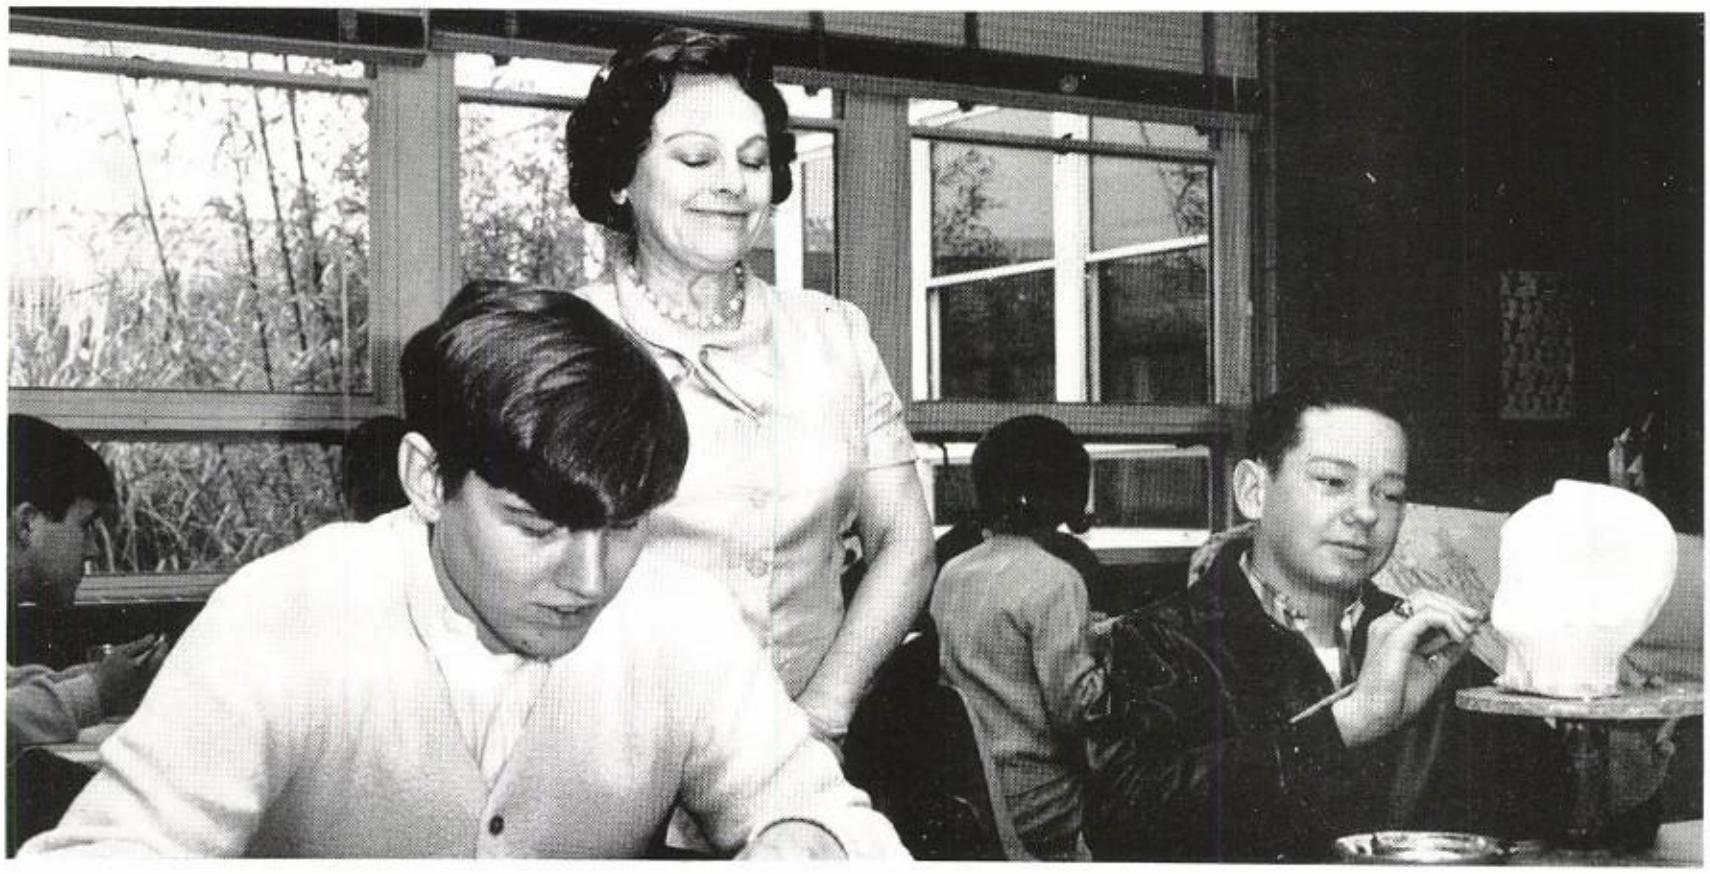
Three years of art are offered at Garinger this year. These courses consist of instruction in various techniques and in the use of numerous materials in the development of the student's artistic skills. The study deals with painting, ceramics, sculpture, stitchery, printing and drawing. Water color, casein, tempera, and encaustic oil are made available to the student for his paintings. In the unit on ceramics the student is taught how to work with clay and glazes. Plaster, metal, and wood are materials used in sculpturing.

There are many rewards for the student who is a part of an art class. Through work on his individual projects the student learns to express himself in his endeavors and to enjoy the feeling of satisfaction which is the result of developing an idea into a finished piece of work made by his own hands.

The student also gains a feeling of personal satisfaction when he sees his work exhibited on the bulletin boards or in the showcases at school or displayed at local or state exhibitions. A more lasting benefit which the student receives, perhaps, is a more knowledgeable and discriminating appreciation of art.

Miss King and Denise Harrelson cast critical glances at Denise's handiwork.

A proud teacher smiles as Terry Polly and Freddy Sowell work on their projects in art.



"Does Ma come before Mc, Mr. Privette?" Donna Dorton asks, as she gains practice in filing.

Commercial

Commercial students at Garinger find a great variety of educational experience to help in the gaining of a knowledge of business. This curriculum is especially designed for those who will seek employment immediately after graduation although students who plan to major in business in college take advantage of these courses too. These career-minded students, for whom high school is terminal education, may choose from a number of practical courses offered by the business education department. This department offers two years of shorthand and two of typewriting. Advanced training can be continued in dictation and transcription, filing procedures, and operation of office machines.

A work-study course, cooperative office education, is offered to advanced students. The program combines classroom training with a supervised work experience in a business office. By completing the advanced courses successfully, a student may qualify for stenographic and secretarial positions open to high school graduates.

General office practice is designed to prepare a student for a general clerical position. It includes filing, machine operation, and general office routine. In addition, an introduction to elementary practices in accounting is offered.

For the student who does not wish to be a secretary, but wants to be able to type his own letters and themes, personal typing is offered, though this course is not included in the regular commercial program.

Besides gaining valuable business experience, the commercial student also has a chance to win valuable scholarships and prizes offered by outside companies by excelling in their choice of courses.

Mrs. Barnes and several of her shorthand students are pictured while Mr. Wee (who is from Malaysia) visits the class.

Vocational

The vocational courses taught at Garinger are classified under these headings: Cooperative Office Education, Distributive Education, and Industrial Cooperative Training. Mechanical drawing is also a part of the curriculum available for the vocational student.

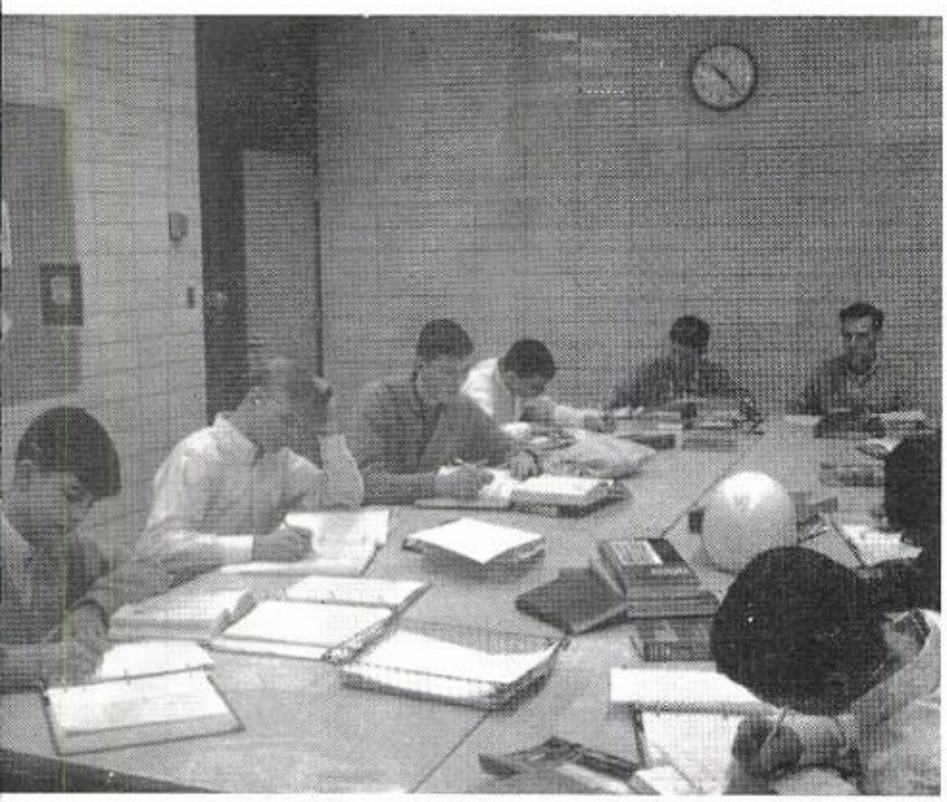
The I.C.T. courses are offered to the student who wishes to investigate an occupation before his graduation. He receives on-the-job training with professional assistance and studies general and technical material in the classroom.

The Distributive Education student studies under a cooperative vocational program. Half of his school day is devoted to his job, but during the other half he attends classes in which he concentrates on D.E. I or II and the subjects required for his graduation.

Two years of mechanical drawing are offered. In Mechanical Drawing I the student is taught the correct use of tools and instruments. In the second year of his study the student works with increasingly difficult problems. He then progresses to architectural drafting. Having completed two years of mechanical drawing, the student is expected to be able to design and draw a complete set of house plans.

"Once upon a time, there were three bears!" Mr. Sinclair seems to be helping one of his students, Reggie Teague.

Mr. Doster's I. C. T. class seems to take the work seriously.



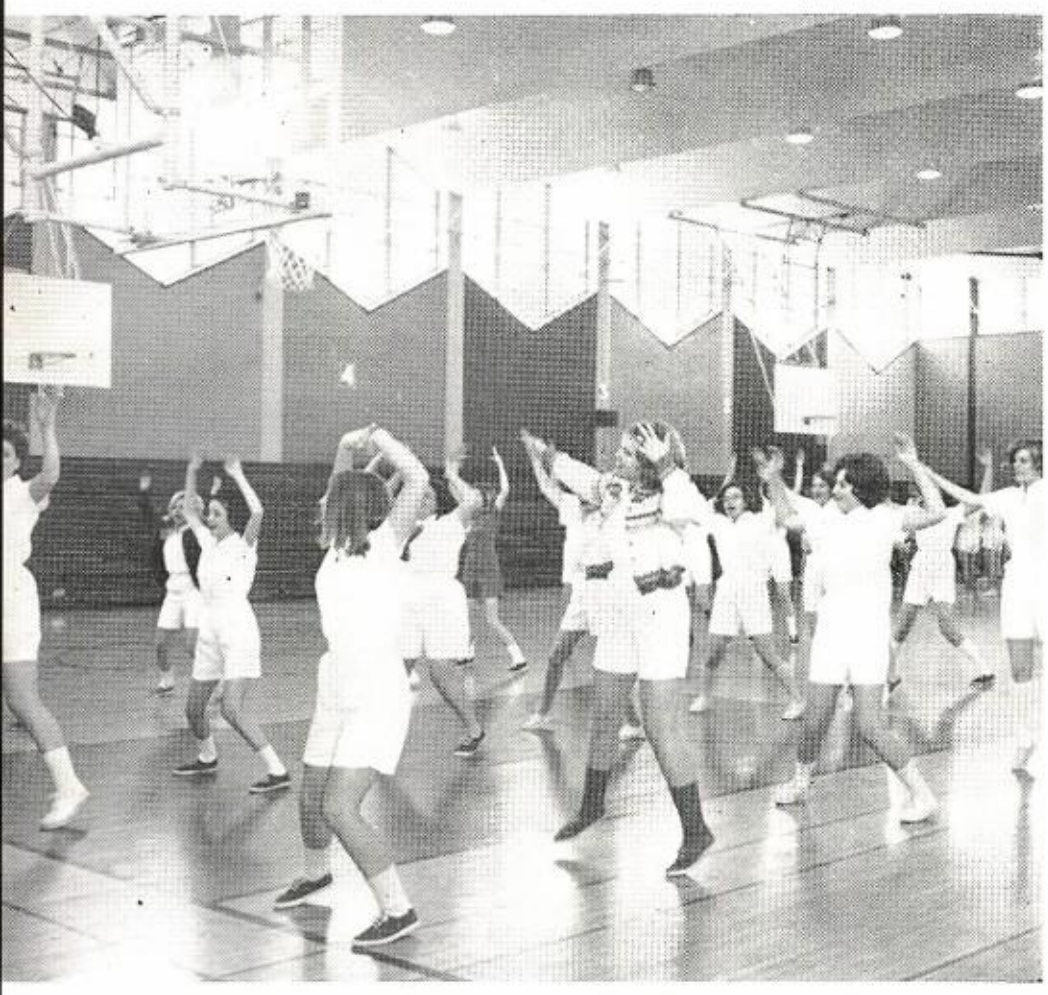
Mrs. Clark gives Rick Byrum, a D.E. student, some assistance.

Everything is up for grabs in Miss Joyce Hunter's class.

Girls in gym class jump for ball. "I want it!"—"No, I want it!"

Physical Education

"And they call this togetherness!" Girls enjoy (?) exercises.

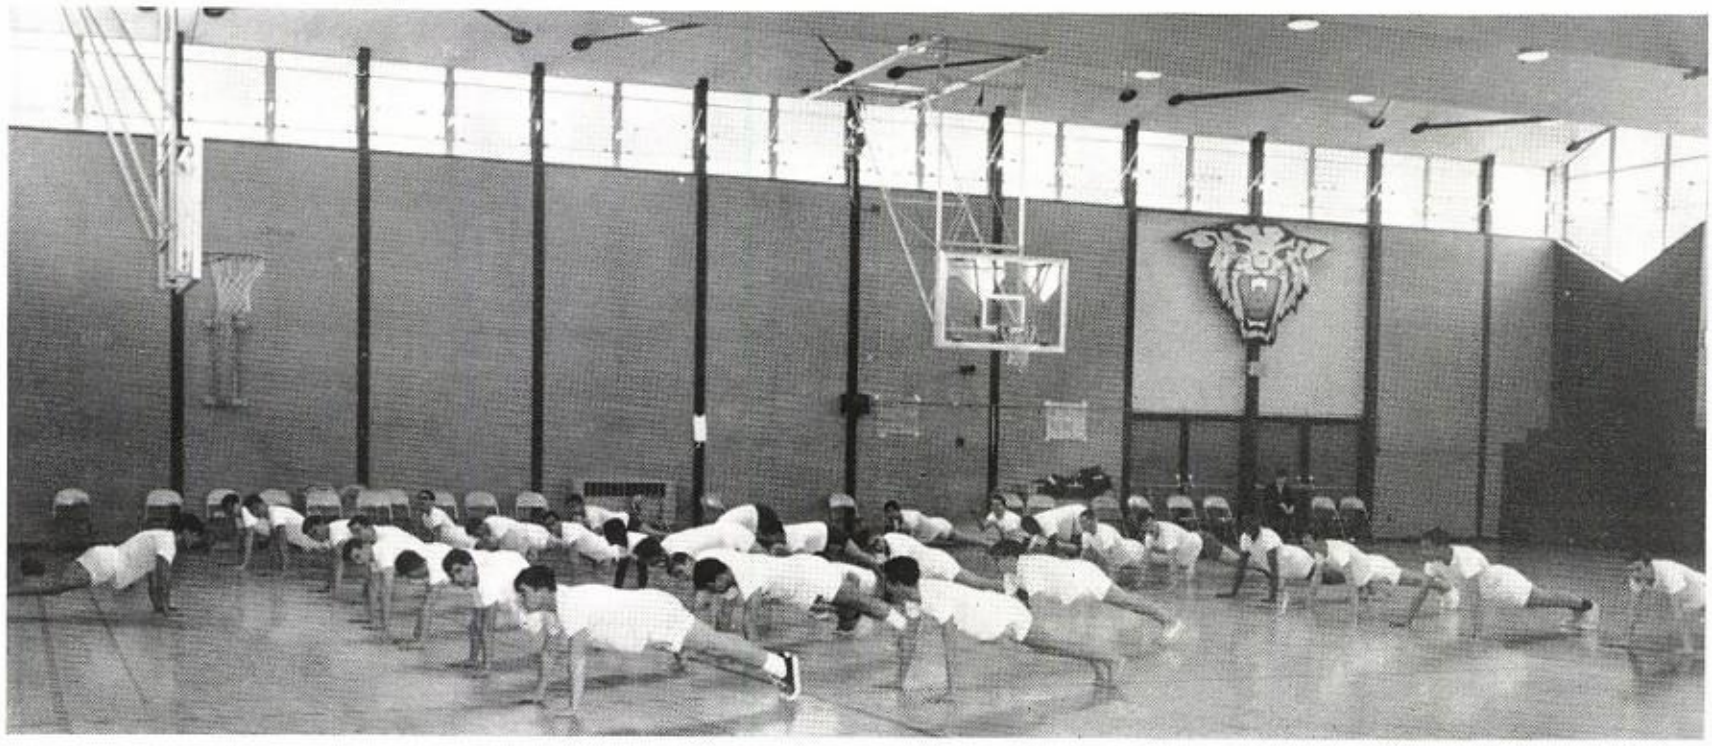


Students at Garinger, both boys and girls, are required to earn one unit in physical education in order to graduate. Most students choose to take the course in their sophomore year, but classes are also open to juniors and seniors.

The intention of the course is to promote physical fitness in the student and to develop his physical stamina and ability. The course also helps to impress the student with the importance of cooperation and good sportsmanship in group participation.

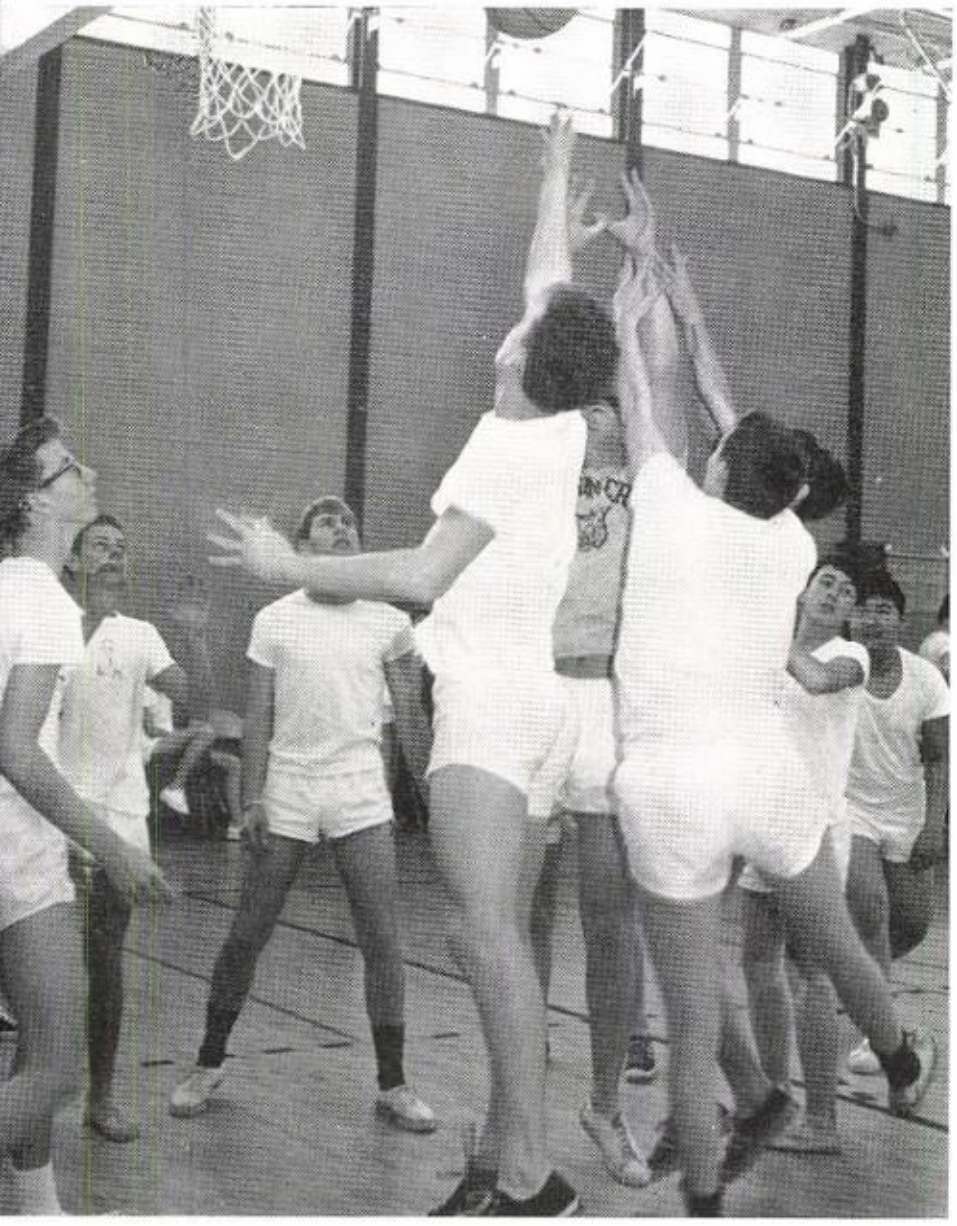
During the year the girls enjoy various sports, in addition to a daily period of calisthenics. The program begins with such outdoor games as speedball and field hockey, but on the days when weather does not permit outdoor activity, the girls play Indian ball. Later, the program is continued with volleyball played in the gym. With the return to school after Christmas vacation, the unit in basketball begins. As the year continues the girls study tumbling, archery, track, and softball. During the year the students sample numerous other sports which add variety to the course.

The boys' physical education classes also include numerous sports, with the boys engaging in a short period of calisthenics each day preceding the actual playing of a game. During the year boys participate in group activities such as volleyball, touch football, basketball, and softball. They also develop their skills in tumbling, wrestling, weight-lifting, and track.



"I will not leave the water on in the showers–999. I will not leave . . ." The boys in Mr. Ball's gym class do push-ups in perfect(?) shape.

"Go on, I was here first!" Boys in gym enjoy basketball.



Everyone just has to get in the act as the boys jump for the ball.

ACTIVITIES...

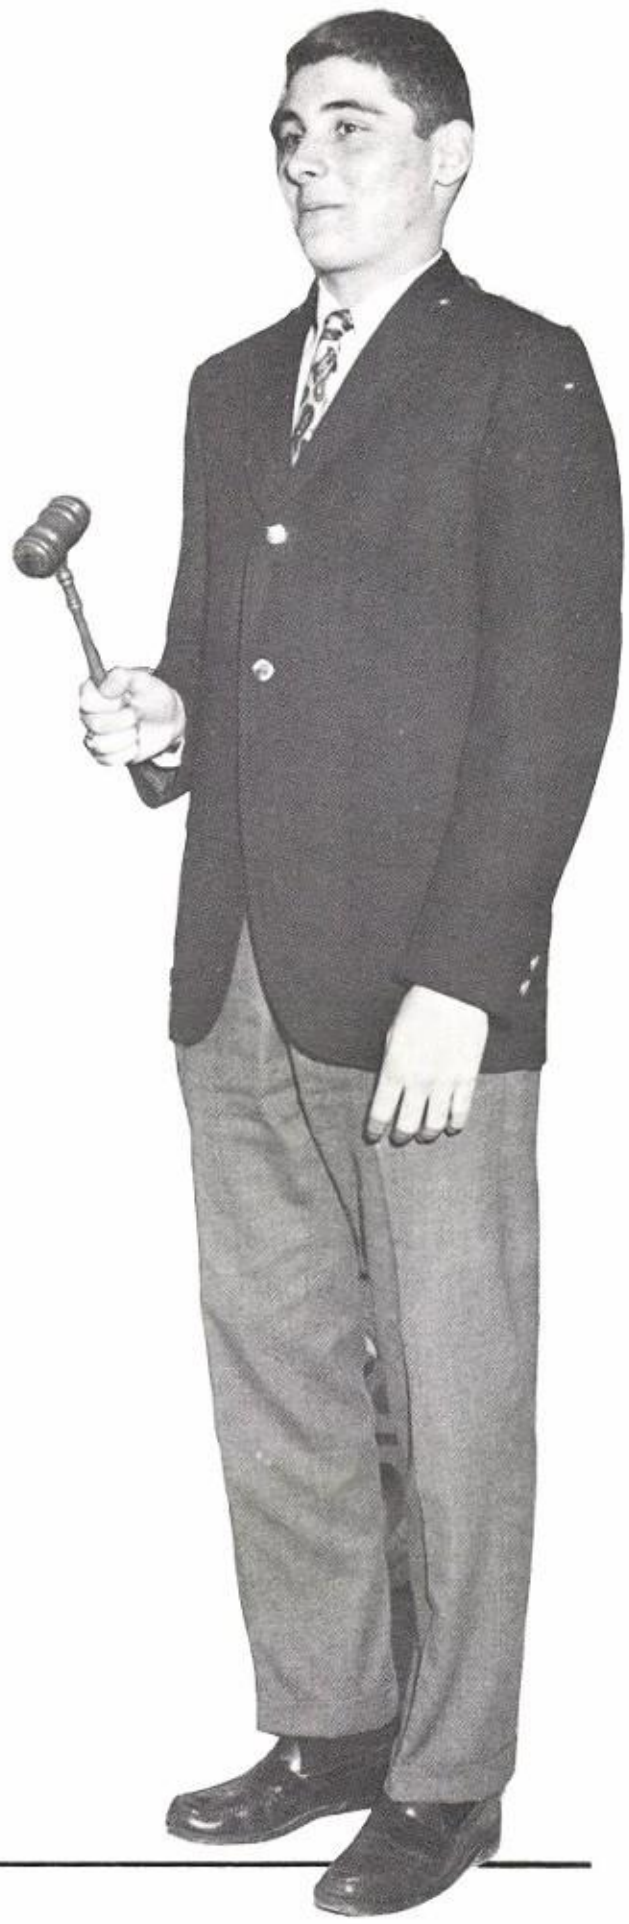
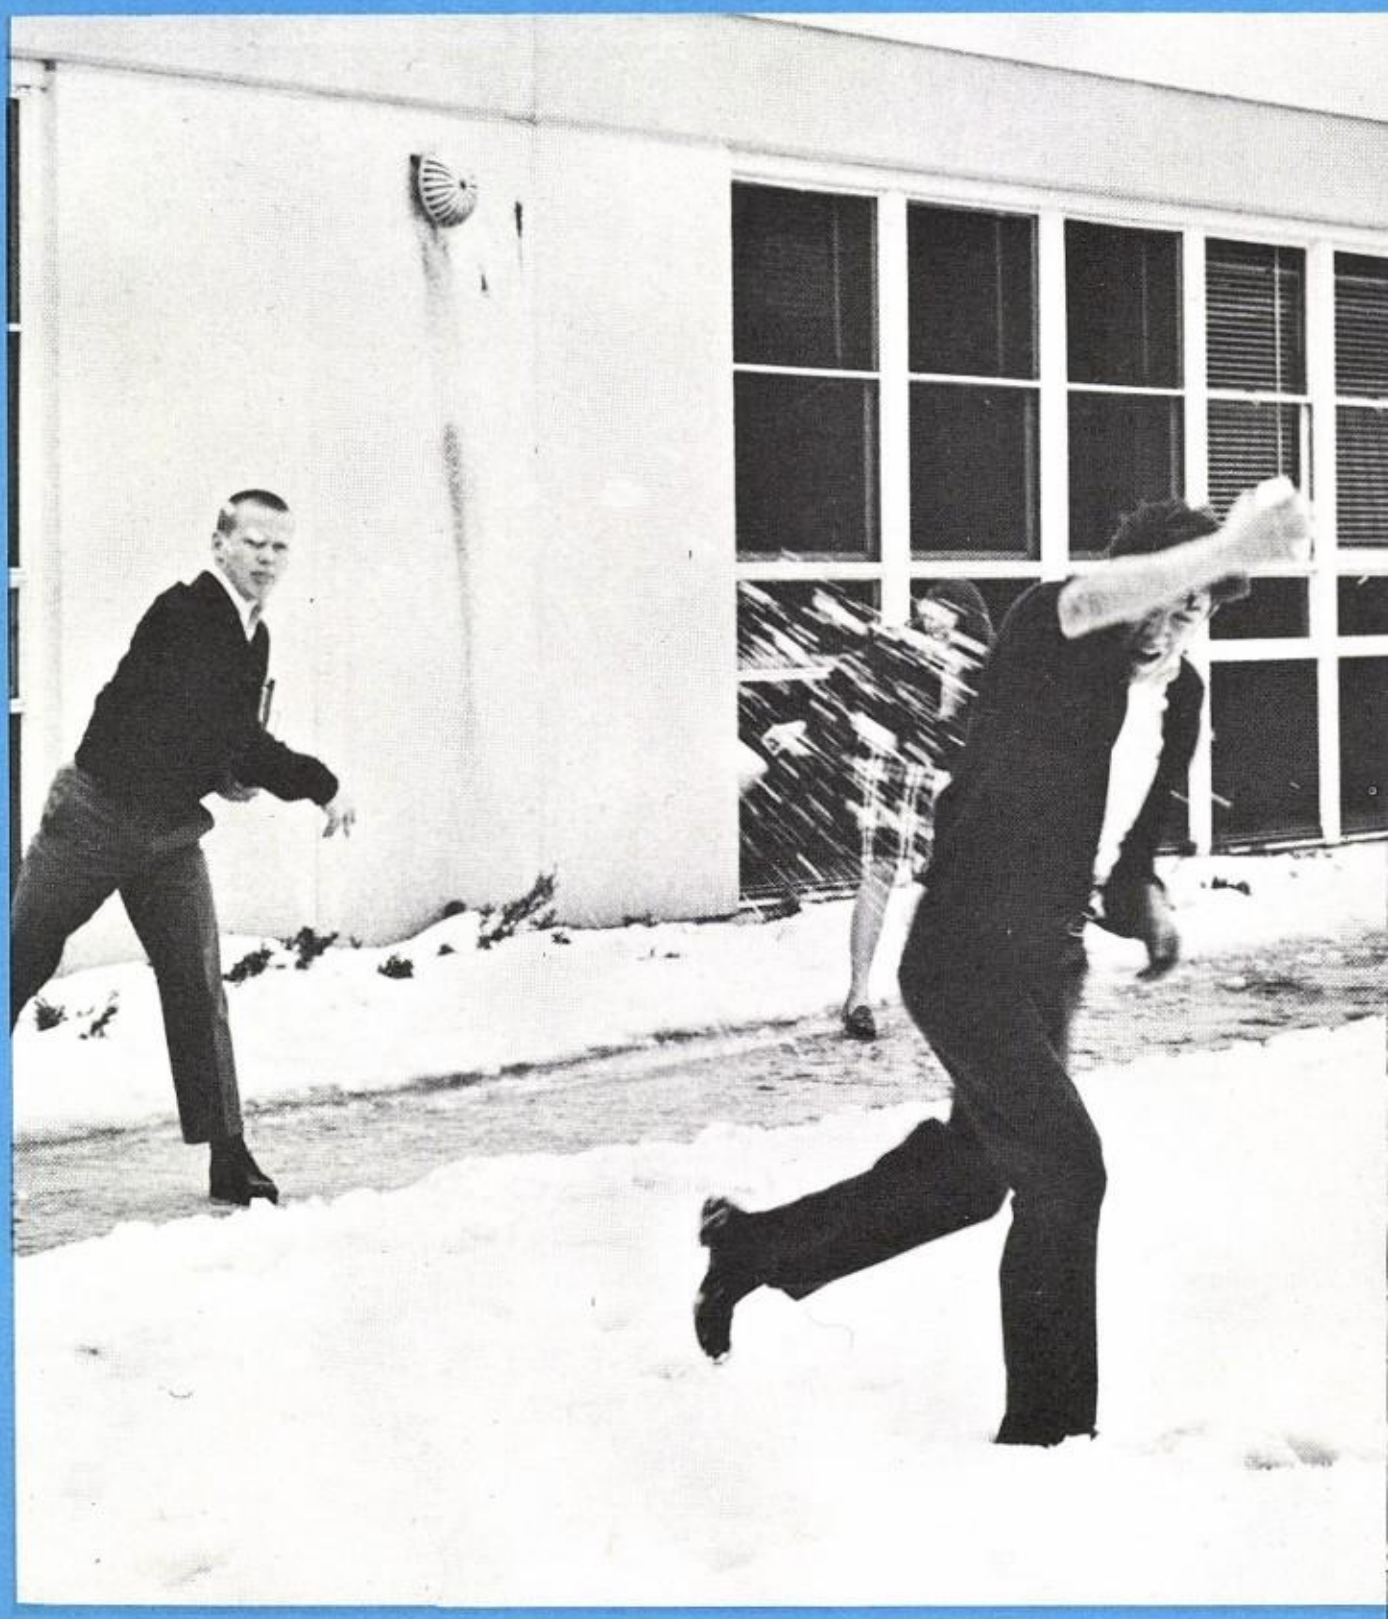
participate

Each student at Garinger has the opportunity to participate in a wide selection of extracurricular activities. During this year, there were numerous happy occasions to balance the more serious aspects of school life. Club meetings, club initiations, pep rallies, School Spirit Week activities, football games, parties, dances, holiday festivities, weekends at the beach and other social events provide the opportunity for fun and for the formation and cultivation of friendships.



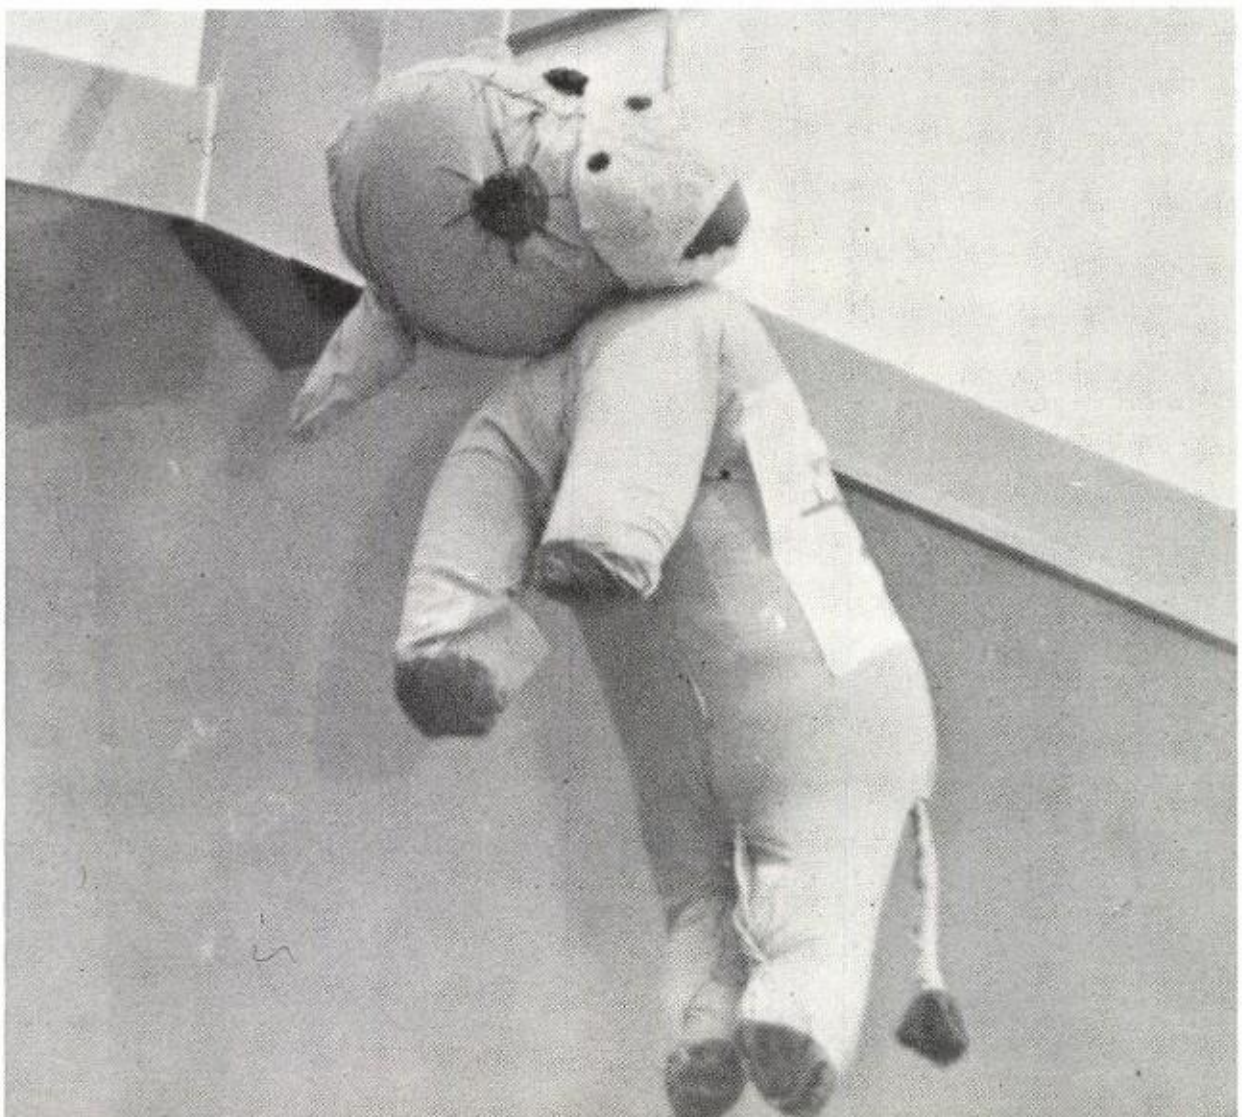


Developing personal capabilities and talents is a part of Garinger's vast educational goals.

Student Participation Encourages Knowledge

Rain, snow or sleet, one always can see plenty of action around the campus.

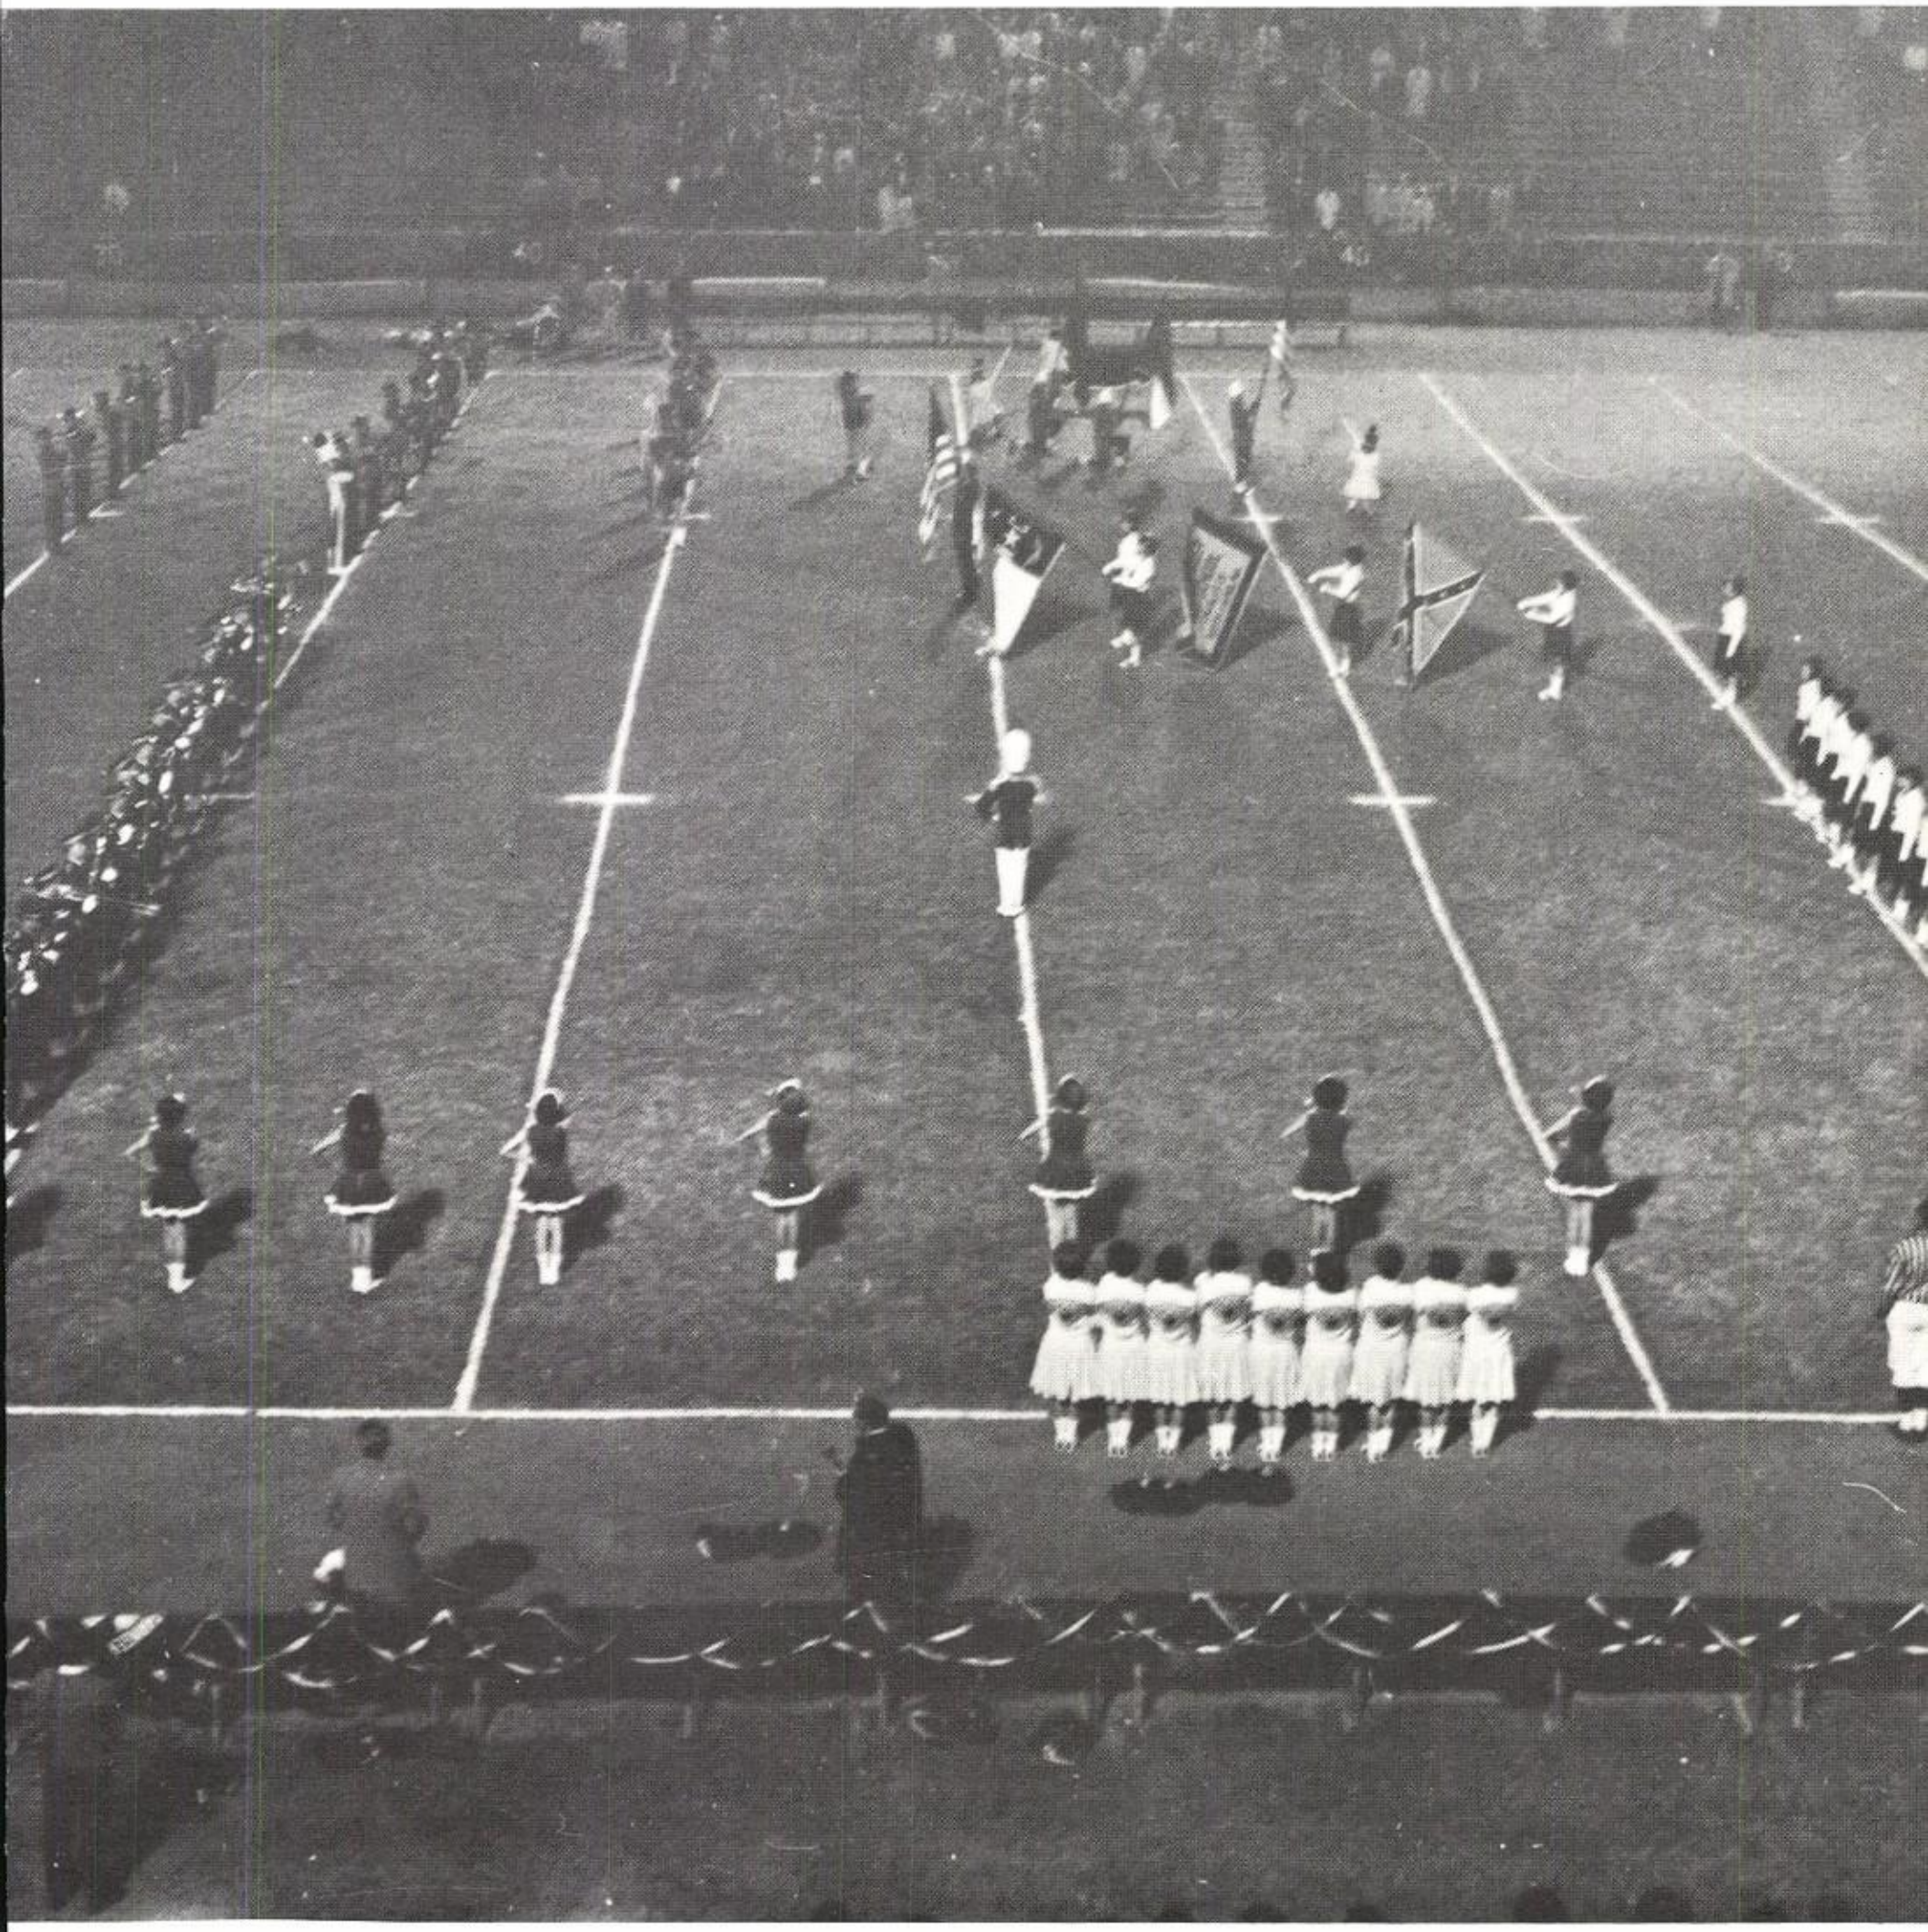
School spirit and pride are stimulated by the friendly competitive contests between schools, like the hanging of a Mustang in the cafeteria.



Opportunity for social activity and group participation is evident

Doing their part during the Powder Puff football game are these lovely and energetic cheerleaders.

Choir is sometimes a barrel of laughs for Mr. Sanders and his choristers.



The success of school events depends on cooperation and enthusiasm on the part of the student body.

Each year the staff of the Garinger high school annual, SNIPS AND CUTS, is made up of students who attempt to produce an accurate record of the school year. From the book's inception to its distribution, they strive to package and preserve the spirit of the school through its students, its teachers, its activities, and its traditions.

Included in their duties are the selling of ads, subscriptions, and picture packages, the making of arrangements for individual and group pictures, the writing of copy for each section and the final assembling of many fractions into a unified whole, a one-volume history of another year in Garinger's history.

After a year's work, the staff hopes to have achieved not only a printed record, but also a work which will provide for the students a goodly measure of pride and pleasure, now and in the future.

Members of the class sections, Caroline Caldwell, Barbara Herrin, Sue Herron, Connie Davis, Linda Ritch, and Debbie Jones compare candid snapshots in their sections. Sophomore section assistant Susan Belk was absent when staff pictures were taken.

Garinger's newspaper, The Rambler, helps to unite our large student body by keeping its readers well-informed not only on school and local events, but also on state and national activities of interest to young people. It also serves as a means of communication between students and faculty.

The Rambler, published every two weeks, includes exact coverage of all sports events, club activities, school elections, and recognition of outstanding Garinger citizens. Through its editorials it seeks to promote school spirit and encourage school improvement. It also seeks to entertain by its sometimes candid look at Garinger life. Students are encouraged to use The Rambler as a means of expressing themselves and airing their opinions.

Produced under the leadership and guidance of its advisor and its editor-in-chief, the cost of The Rambler's publication is financed by student fees and advertising.

Ever alert, The Rambler's prowling reporters and photographers report and record newsworthy events and happenings. Established in 1922 at Central High, the paper's circulation has grown steadily. Through the years The Rambler has continued to play an important role in the life of all Garinger citizens.

Lynn Waddell, Sally Steineck and Gayle Watts ease the competition—other school papers.

Worrying about the paper's budget is a main preoccupation of Lynn Wilkinson and Marie Lewis.

STUDENT COUNCIL

With a membership composed of student council officers, homeroom presidents, club representatives, class presidents and standing committee chairmen, the Student Council seeks to unite Garinger through organized projects and discussions. It strives to coordinate all school activities and to promote good relations between the student body and the faculty.

Sponsored by the Student Council, the Interclub Council, consisting of all the club presidents, meets once a quarter to discuss and to coordinate the activities of the clubs. To avoid conflicts of regular meetings and important projects, a calendar of events is set up.

This year, the Student Council sponsored a successful school spirit week as a means of encouraging school-wide student participation. A sale of pep cards and Wildcat stickers was profitable. In February, the week preceding the Valentine Dance was designated as Sadie Hawkins Week. The annual fund-raising campaign for the Student Council is the Carnival which is held in March. Many clubs and homerooms organize booths with two-thirds of the profit going to the Student Council for scholarships.

With Miss Nan Abell as advisor, the Council activities are carried on under the leadership of officers elected by the entire student body. Each year Student Council officers from throughout the South meet to share ideas and projects, and to learn more efficient student government. During the year, our officers attended the Southern convention in Roanoke, Virginia, the state convention in Burlington, N. C., and the district convention in Concord, North Carolina.

Interested and talented members of the Garinger High School Orchestra have progressed in skill and knowledge this year. The orchestra operates on a professional style season, giving concerts for the student body and the public. In theme, these performances have ranged from symphonies and concerts to popular film scores.

This year the symphony orchestra gave its debut performance at Ovens Auditorium in the Fall Showcase. The three-concert series included the performance of major symphony works, new and contemporary music, and solo performances by outstanding musicians within the orchestra.

In addition, members audition for and perform in the All-State Orchestra, attend the state festival in Greensboro and perform in small ensemble recitals.

With a three-year membership in the orchestra, one receives a general introduction to the major works from four historical periods.

Concertmaster, Bob Innis, displays his talent.

A conscientious effort on the part of all orchestra members is required for the success of the performances.

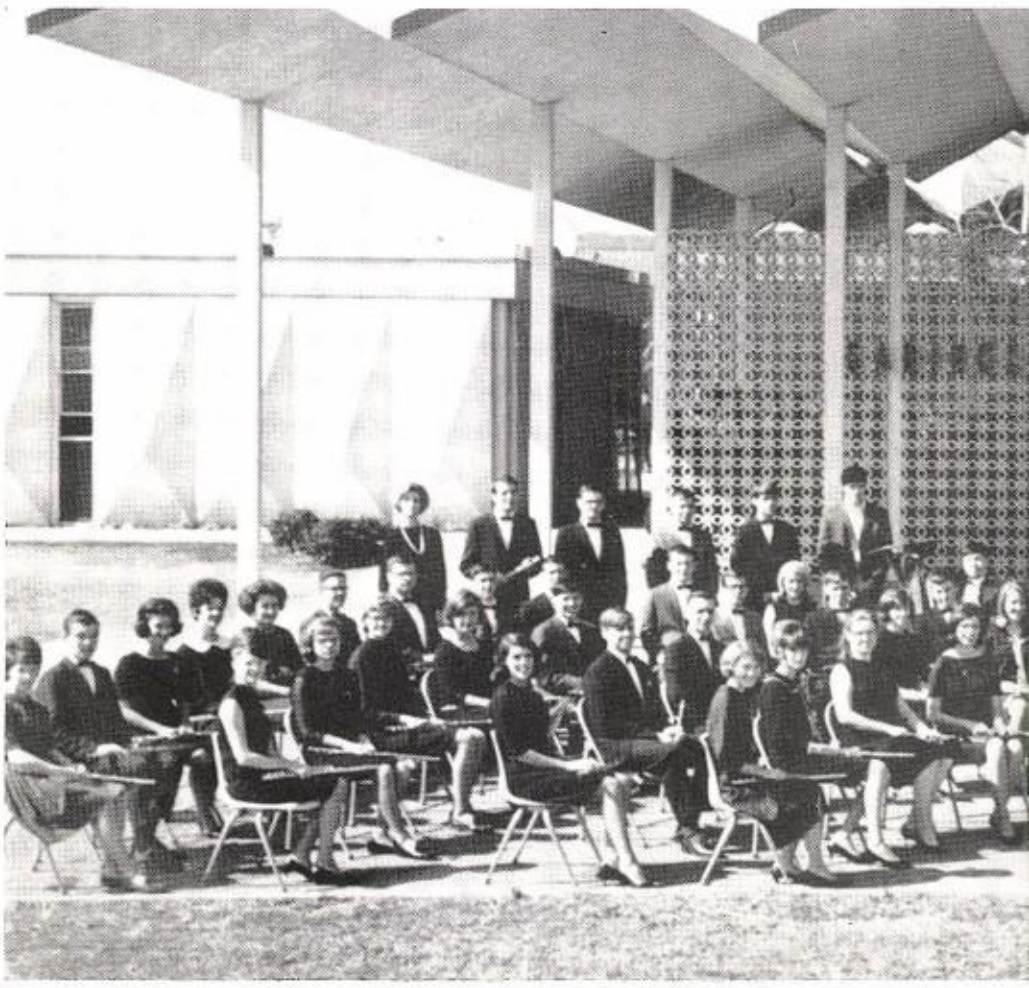
Enrichment in the field of music is the goal of symphonic Band Members. Membership in this group is by recommendation and audition. The symphonic band is designed to provide performing experience and a broad repertoire in modern and traditional band music for interested and talented students.

Beginning after football season, the symphonic band presents a series of concerts for the student body, the public and junior high schools. Individual members may compete in the All-Regional band and in solo performances. The band participates in the state music festival in Greensboro.

These same members work hard to perform as a marching band during football season. Spending hours of toil in the outdoors, to perfect sequences which last for six minutes, the marching band represents Garinger at parades, rallies and athletic events.

SYMPHONIC BAN

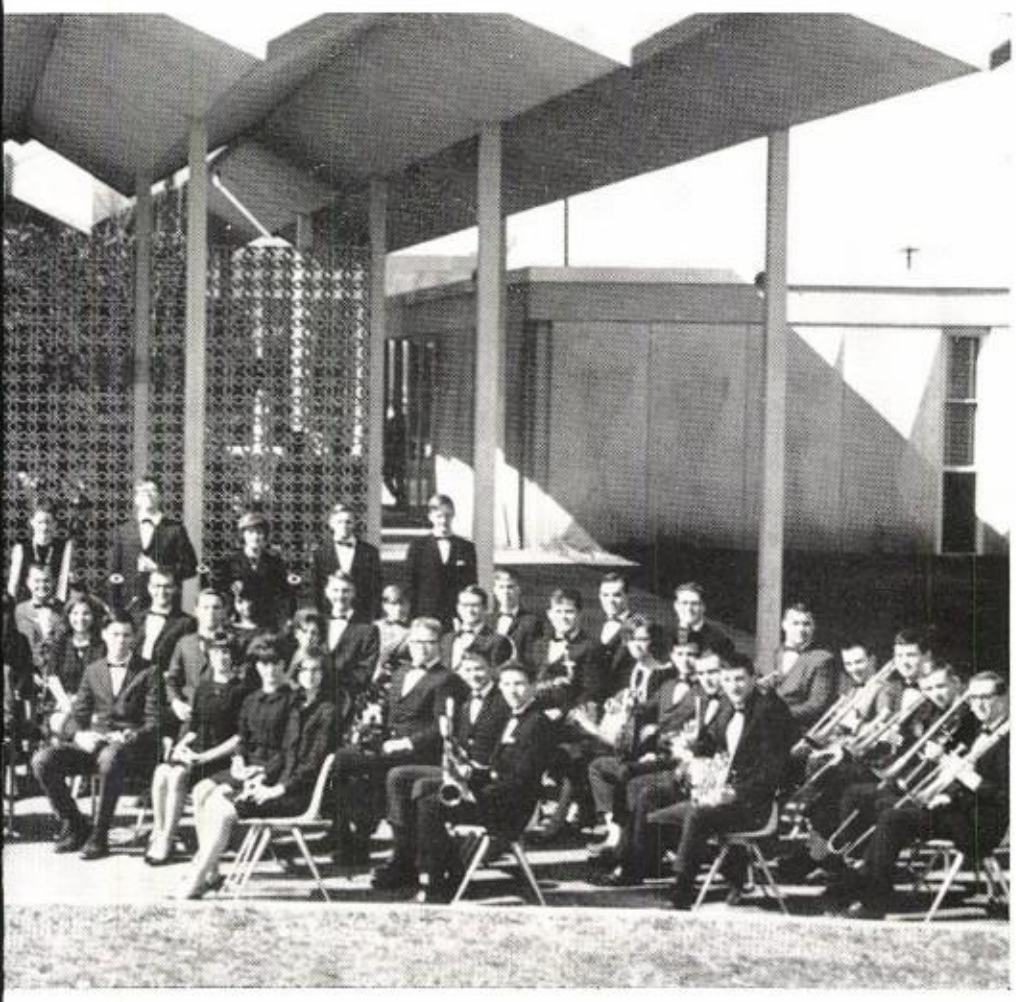
Concerts presented in a professional style offer experience and skill.



Garinger students participating in the All-State Band are Ike Casey, Bill Hackney, Danny Locklair, Brenda Dugger, Buddy Worrell, D. G. McGinnis, Terry Willis, Barbara Fitzgerald, and Ronny Jordan.

Could you count the many hours of practice and work that go into our musical program, under the direction of Mr. Robert Maddox?

resents professional concerts



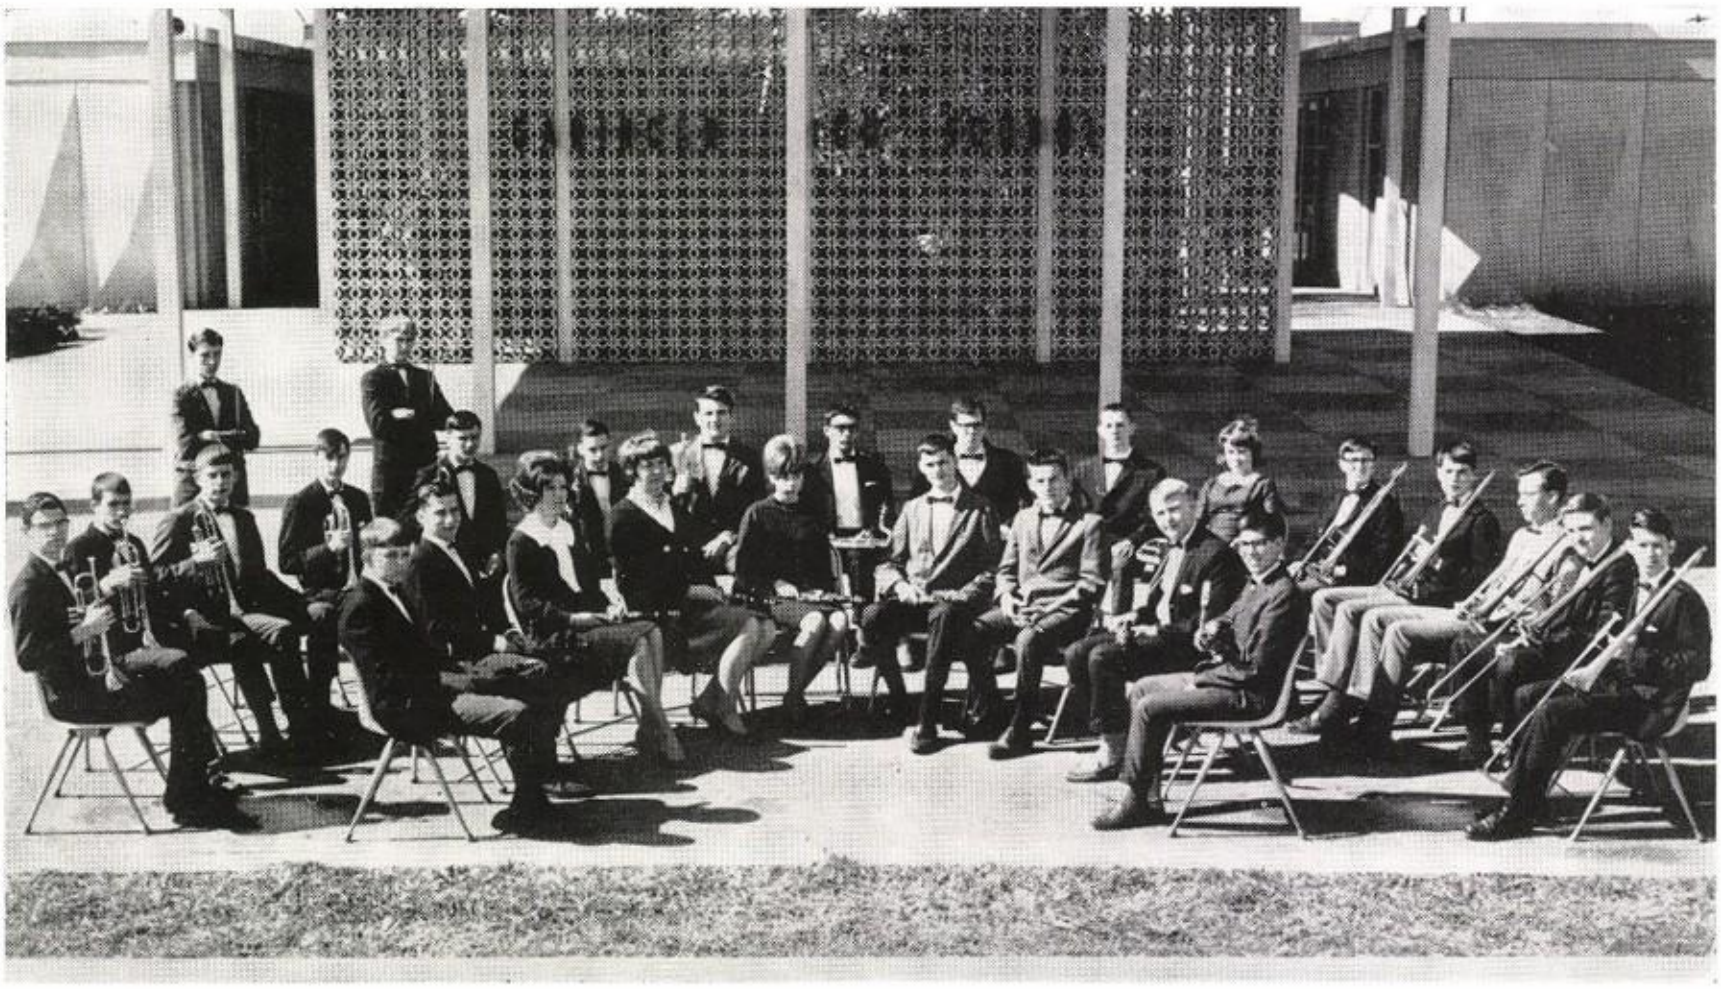
Learning new skills is the goal of the Concert Band.

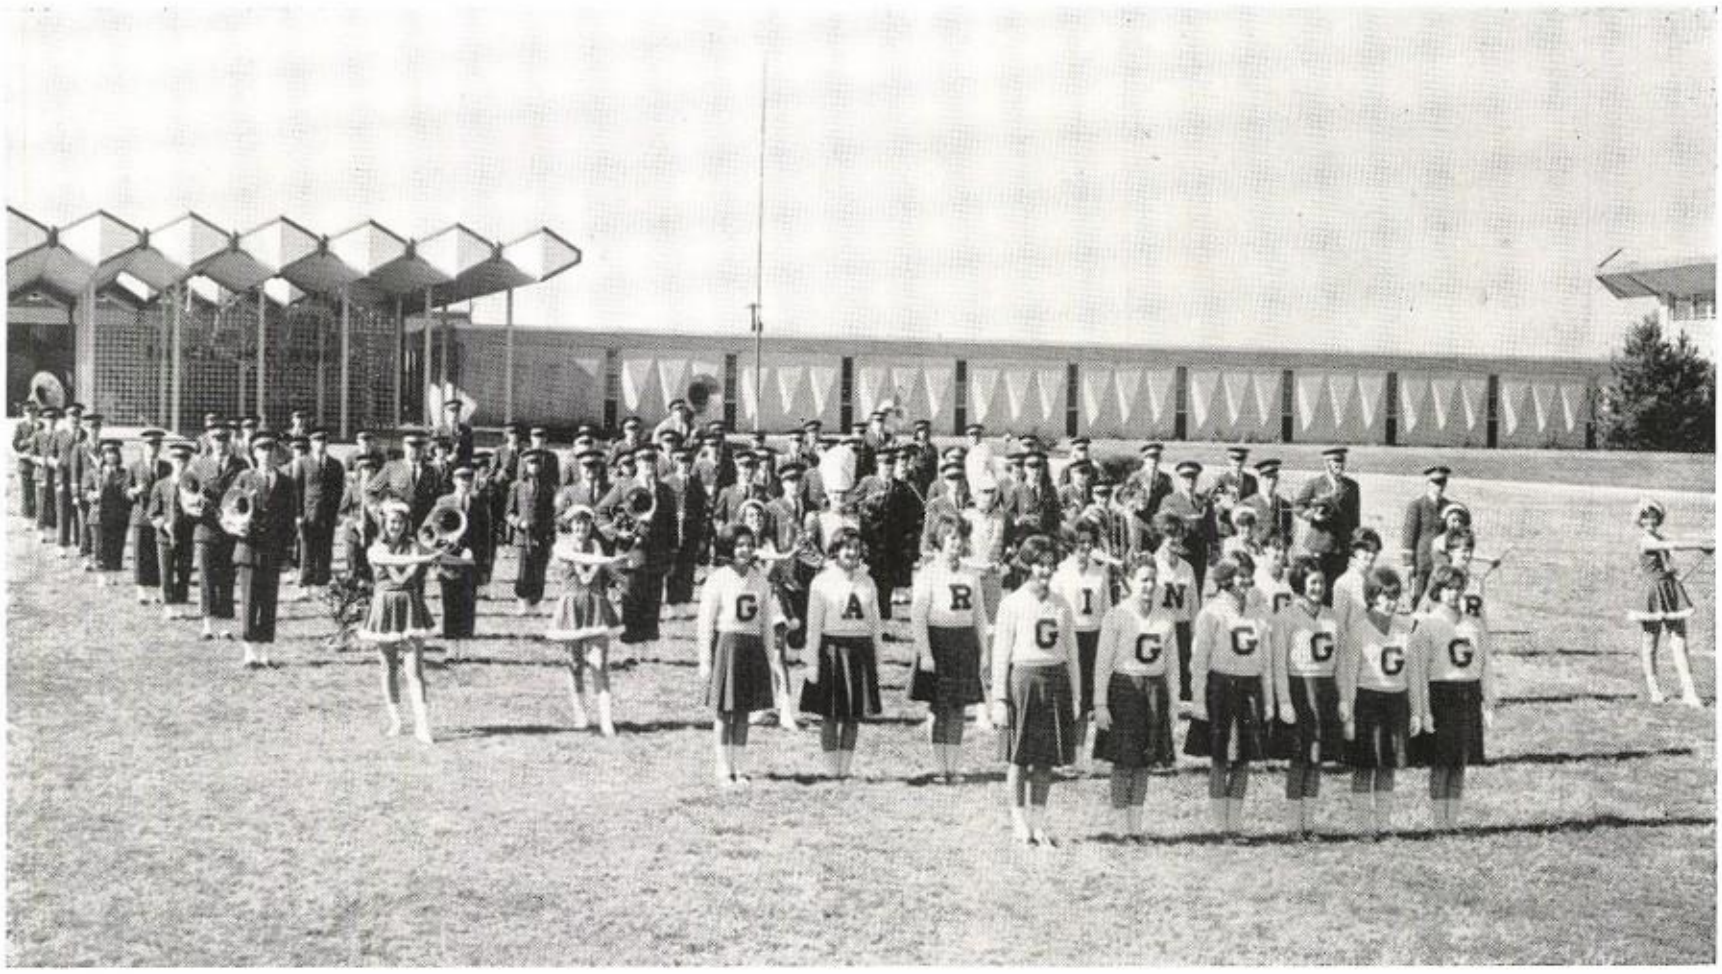
Musical understanding and performance are the goals of the Concert Band. This is achieved by three concerts during the school year. Operating on a musical level, requiring, initially, less technical skill and understanding than the Symphonic Band, the group provides a training class for students.

As in the other musical organizations, the Concert Band performs in a professional style concert.

CONCERT BAND gains experience

The Concert Band is a training group, performing in many musical events.





To present the spectacular half-time performances, the marching band drills for hours and perfects formations.

County-wide cooperation of Red Cross chapters is a main factor in the life of Garinger's Red Cross, which is made up of homeroom representatives. A number of charitable projects are carried out during the school year. One of the first is a program of soliciting for the Red Cross through homerooms. Baskets of food collected at Thanksgiving are given to needy people. Another activity is the recruiting of volunteers to work in hospitals. The club's major project this year has been corresponding with students at a school in Colombia, and exchanging school scrapbooks with them.

Y-Teens

Sponsored by the Y. W. C. A., the Garinger Y-Teens is a service club, that combines both work and fun in its activities. Membership is open to all interested girls.

Using its opportunity to serve both the school and the community, the club has participated in such worthwhile projects as supporting a Y. W. C. A. talent show, a car wash, the making of prize-winning doll dresses for the Salvation Army, soliciting for the Heart Fund, distributing Valentine tray favors to hospitals, and, traditionally, the selling of Garinger pillows to fellow students.

Students who act as SNIPS AND CUTS homeroom representatives perform an invaluable service. Their duties include collecting fees during subscription drives, supplying further information about the yearbook to students in their homerooms, distributing annuals in the spring, and acting as a link between staff members and the student body. Through their efforts a more effective subscription drive, larger circulation, and more efficient distribution is made possible.

Scholarship, leadership, and a desire for service are the qualifications for membership in the Key Club, a service organization sponsored by the Mecklenburg Kiwanis Club. Each week, a boy from the club is guest of their sponsors at the regular luncheon meeting.

The most important service project of the year was the compilation, publication, and distribution of the Key Club directory, which was given to all Garinger students. This annual project is financed by the advertisers. Among their other community services, the boys organized an "old clothes drive" for needy people.

The Key Club members undertook many fund-raising projects this year; participation in the school carnival, the Key Club Kapers, at which talented students provided entertainment and the Student-Faculty basketball game.

The proceeds from these projects are used to finance $200 scholarships for two deserving seniors on Honors and Awards Day. One scholarship is given to a Key Club senior and one goes to a deserving senior who is not a member of the group.

In its first year of existence, the Interact Club of Garinger has performed many services to the school and to the community. The Interact Club is sponsored by the North Charlotte Rotary Club. This year, Garinger sent delegates to the State Interact Convention in Concord, N. C.

To aid the expansion of the program, Garinger's Interact Club corresponded with a similar club in Japan. Funds were spent on a new flag for the school.

As with many of the service clubs at Garinger, the Interact Club worked with national campaigns, such as the Multiple Sclerosis Drive.

The main fund-raising project was the sale of Garinger High School license plates to all interested Cats.

Besides service to the community, the Interact Club supports other school activities. Participation in the Key Club Kapers and in the school Carnival proved profitable as well as entertaining.

The Interact Club worked with the Key Club to obtain a fountain for the front of the school.

CENTRUSA CLUB

Initiation into the Centrusa Club, a selective service organization for junior and senior girls, is a happy event for all concerned. Awakened before dawn by cries of "Surprise!" new members are taken to the traditional Centrusa breakfast at the home of the advisor, Mrs. Frances Hawn. A formal dinner is part of the induction of new members. The purpose of Centrusa is to render service to Garinger, and to the community, while having fun.

Among the many community services performed by Centrusa is the food-basket presentation at the Thanksgiving assembly and giving Poinsettias to shut-ins at Christmas. The club helped to give a needy family a Merry Christmas by providing food and gifts. In February, one could see Centrusa members collecting for the Heart Fund at various street corners. Later in April, the girls sold "Forget-me-nots" for disabled veterans.

Centrusa helped promote school spirit by contributing to the bus fund and participating in School Spirit Week. The girls staged a Powder Puff football game with G.G.S., to raise money for a football bus to Raleigh. During basketball season the sale of pep cards is an annual project of Centrusa. The club also contributed to the Foreign Exchange program and other club activities, such as the Key Club directory.

In the spring Centrusa presents its annual fashion show, "Younger than Springtime." The latest spring fashions, modeled by Centrusa members, are followed with the presentation of door prizes and entertainment. On Honors and Awards Day, two $50 scholarships are given to two senior members.

An annual tea for alumnae is given at Christmas and a party in the Spring rounds out the social agenda. Officers for the next year are elected at the club's summer picnic. The final event for the year is a wonderful beach trip.

"Okay girls, go get them!" is the demand of the coach during the ruff-tuff Powder Puff football game.

GIRLS' GOOD SPORTS CLUB

After a year of work, Phyllis Smith, Lucy Williams, and the G.G.S. girls enjoy a fun-filled weekend at Myrtle Beach.

"If you'll buy a twirlie I'll hold your hand at the game, Johnny."

All the qualities of citizenship, sportsmanship and friendship are emphasized by the members of the G.G.S., a selective service club. The girls, work by a point system to maintain a membership, which begins with two nights of rigorous initiation at the home of Miss Sue Haney, the advisor, and an induction dinner, which is followed by a year of constructive projects and fellowship.

G.G.S.'s contributions to the school spirit of Garinger include the making and selling of the colorful twirlies for football season. The afternoon preceding every football game finds G.G.S. girls at the football stadium decorating the goal posts and hanging signs. The warmth of the Homecoming game is enhanced by the chrysanthemums sold by the club. All the ads in the football programs were obtained through the efforts of this club's members.

This year, the annual pep rally with G.G.S. girls as participants was a boost to school spirit.

To raise funds for the student bus to Raleigh, G.G.S. played in the Powder Puff game against the Centrusa club. The girls serve the community as well as the school. In February, the girls collected for the Heart Fund; later they took part in other charitable drives such as the selling of Easter seals.

A Halloween party with the Key Club, a New Year's Eve party and an alumnae tea at Christmas accent the G.G.S. social calendar. A long-awaited beach trip is scheduled for a week-end in May.

On Honors and Awards Day, a scholarship is presented to a senior girl.

"Who, me tired???" G.G.S girls take full advantage of their half-time rest during their tackle Powder Puff football game.

njoys year of service

Sophomore girls with the qualities of leadership, service, friendliness, plus scholastic ability, are the members of this selective service club. The Adelphian tradition of combining "sisterly love" with service is evident in their projects at Garinger and in the community.

During the summer months, each Adelphian sells programs at the Charlotte Summer Theatre one night a week. With the arrival of football season, the girls are busy selling football programs and miniature megaphones. These projects enable the club to present a scholarship to a deserving senior on Honors and Awards Day.

Another service to the school is that of being responsible for the flag each day; each Adelphian girl being assigned flag duty for a week.

Besides their service to Garinger, the Adelphians helped with collections in several national fund-raising drives. Among these was the Heart Fund in February.

Slumber parties and club initiations are a large part of the club's social events. Following the rough initiaation, the girls attend a dinner for the induction service. A trip to the beach climaxes a year of friendship and service for the Adelphians.

Marsha Curlee pauses to sell a megaphone to a spirited "Cat."

Flag-raising for one week is one contribution of Dottie Ledford and Rusty Johnson.

By participating in the activities and projects planned by the Latin Club, its members gain a greater understanding of ancient Roman civilization. They have an opportunity to gain a deeper insight into the lives and thoughts of the Roman people, and through informative programs can better appreciate the legacy left by the Roman civilization. Because so many aspects of modern culture and government reflect Roman influence, the club can also promote a greater understanding of other courses.

Annual activities sponsored by the group include a trip to Chapel Hill for "Latin Day," the sponsoring of a booth at the Student Council Carnival, contributing to the Empty Stocking Fund, and planning a Roman banquet to highlight the events of the year.

Club meetings are held monthly at the homes of various members. These meetings combine business with pleasure. Second, third, fourth, and exceptional first year students of Latin are eligible for membership.

FRENCH CLUB

Through its meetings, members of the French Club strive to achieve a greater understanding of French language and customs. By participating in informal study, as well as informative programs, students also gain an interest in the people and the culture of France. Topics of study have included French art, travel in France, and Christmas in France.

First year students with a semester grade of at least a "B," as well as second, third, and fourth year French students are eligible for membership. Mrs. Shirley Heinbaugh is advisor.

Club activities included caroling, a Christmas party, a paper drive to raise money, a French play, and sponsoring a booth at the Student Council Carnival.

DEBATING CLUB

Members of the Garinger debating club, one of the school's newest organizations, under the leadership of their advisor, Mrs. Flora Huntley, have participated in a number of interclub debates. Subjects discussed and considered have included the lowering of the voting age to eighteen, repealing the Taft-Hartley Act, and compulsory driver education for high school students.

The two teams—varsity and junior varsity—composed of four members each, are chosen by the club members. Topics used for interclub competitive debating concerned labor management.

This year the negative debate team was in state final competition at Chapel Hill.

SPANISH CLUB

Her Majesty, Linda Driver, was Spanish Reyna of the Fiesta.

To explore the customs, history, people, and culture of the Latin American countries is the main objective of the Garinger High School Spanish Club. Members of the organization have come to have a special reason for studying the Spanish language: an interest in our Latin American neighbors and a concern for both world affairs and international relations.

Mr. Victor Moya-Mendez, the advisor, is a native of Peru, and is able to give students first-hand information about his homeland and other Spanish-speaking countries. Two of Garinger's foreign exchange students, David McKnight and Sandra Sanders, have spoken to club members about their experiences in South America, also.

Membership in the club is open to any student of Spanish at Garinger. Interesting and worthwhile programs further the student's understanding of South American countries. Although the main purpose is educational, social events are planned throughout the year by the members and these are based on Spanish Customs. The most unusual of these activities is the Spanish Halloween Carnival. The club was host to a number of South American visitors who had toured "The Queen City." Spanish food was served, a prize given for the best Spanish costume, and the Spanish queen was crowned. Entertainment carried out a Spanish theme. During the second semester, the Spanish Club sponsored a Latin American Pageant. The comedy "Cuando los Nubes Cambian De Nariz," by Eduardo Criado, was presented.

Recognition of the pleasures and rewards of homemaking and family life is the goal of the Future Homemakers of America.

Perhaps the club's most important activity during the year is the selling of name tags to college-bound students. One project which is traditional is the presentation of silver trays to outstanding home economics students. Another activity that couples work with fun is the selling of "surprise boxes" of food, cooked by club girls, at the Student Council carnival.

Club programs for the year have included a field trip to get new ideas for Christmas decorations, a Christmas dinner to which girls brought toys for needy children, a county-wide F.H.A. rally, and talks on fashion, flower arranging, and "How To Be Charming."

Interest in home economics is the only requirement for F.H.A. membership.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA
develop professional abilities

Composed of students who have shown an interest in teaching as a profession, the Future Teachers of America attempts to give students an insight into teaching through carefully planned programs and group projects.

Members use this opportunity to explore teaching in several ways. The chapter opened the school year by assisting with orientation of new teachers. During the fall months the club served as the host school for the year's first county-wide meeting. The club members worked as guides for the first P.T.A. meeting, and attended the first student N.E.A. meeting at U.N.C.C.

In November members met with other F.T.A. members at Wake Forest to participate in the state F.T.A. convention.

Members learn more about teaching by serving as assistants and tutors. In the spring the traditional visitation of an elementary school provided an opportunity to observe the techniques used in teaching young children.

After attempting to develop their teaching abilities by exploring the different facets of this vocation, members select each year the club's Representative Future Teacher. The club also awards the Charlotte Classroom Teacher Service plaque to the member who has been most outstanding in service during the year.

Distributive Education is a program which has a two-fold aim—learning job skills at school in the morning and acquiring on-the-job experience in the afternoon. Students interested in receiving school credits, job training, and a monetary return make up the D.E. classes and the D.E. club.

The group is active in holding contests to build skills; job interview, sales demonstration, ad layout and public speaking contests are examples. "Student of the Year" and "D.E. Sweetheart" are selected during the year.

Students have participated in district and state conventions, and have placed in several, among them the district sales demonstration and ad layout contests.

A major project of the year has been publicizing the D.E. program. A display was arranged at the county fair, and a window was decorated in downtown Charlotte during national D.E.C.A. week and at Christmas. D.E. students discussed the program on Jimmy Kilgo's daily television program, "Midday."

Willie Wildcat, a well-known school figure, is sponsored by D.E.—a spirited member clowns and capers at pep rallies and athletic events.

The club has had Parents' Day to acquaint students' mothers and fathers with the D.E. program, plus the annual Bosses' banquet, and parties for the members.

D.E. students are the business community's future leaders; judging from their performance, they will be good ones.

Garinger's chapter of the Vocational Industrial Club of America is composed of students enrolled in industrial cooperative training classes.

Meeting often to provide members opportunities to participate in various social, recreational, vocational, and educational activities, the club encourages the development of leadership, fellowship, self-confidence, personality, and poise, and the building of proper attitudes, good character, and the behavior patterns vital to good citizenship.

Representatives attended the western district meeting at Rutherford-Swindale high school in the fall; Miss Linda Dillon of Garinger's V.I.C.A. was elected president of the western district. She presided over the February meeting at which Garinger students competed in various contests featuring public speaking, job interviewing, domestic affairs, and international affairs. Garinger winners, along with the chapter's delegates and representatives, attended the state convention held in Raleigh during March. At that meeting state officers for the 1966-67 school year were elected and 1966 contest winners were named.

Sponsorship of a booth in the school's annual carnival was one of the club's projects during the spring semester. Another, which entailed both fun and work, was a profitable car wash held at a local filling station.

Enrollment of the Garinger Business Leaders Club consists of interested juniors and seniors who are taking business courses. They must maintain a "C" average or better to qualify for membership.

Development of competence, aggressiveness, and leadership is stressed, for these traits are of great value in the business world. Confidence, cooperation, scholarship, and patriotism are other qualities which are encouraged. Members are urged to build their outside interests and to contribute their services within the home, the school, and the community. The club also strives to "create more understanding and interest in choosing business occupations."

The monthly meetings are built around well-planned programs which sometimes feature speakers; among these speakers have been men and women from the business world, the fields of beauty and fashion, and from the numbers of former students now employed. Some programs have consisted of trips to various business establishments to observe the inner workings of an office; others have been panel discussions by the members.

Advisors for the club are Mr. E. D. Privette and Mr. R. B. Gregory, business teachers. They provide a great service for seniors each year by helping them to find a position in the business world after graduation.

Cooperative Office Occupations, a business preparatory course for seniors, was begun in 1964. It combines classroom study in the mornings with on-the-job training in the afternoons. Members of this class belong to the C.O.O. Club, which provides activities of both a vocational and a social nature.

The highlight of each year's social calendar is the annual Employer-Employee banquet honoring the employers of the C.O.O. members. This event is held jointly with the C.O.O. Clubs from East Mecklenburg and West Mecklenburg high schools. They also had a booth at the school carnival.

Members helped in recruiting new students for the 1966-67 school year by holding a reception for those students interested in becoming members of next year's class.

For contributing the most clothing to the clothes drive, the group was awarded a prize by the Key Club. C.O.O. members were guests at a fashion show of office wear at Ivey's and their hair was styled by a local beauty school. At Christmas the club members were hostesses at a tea for parents. By way of celebrating semester break, the members attended a dinner party at Anderson's. Graduation provided the occasion for the final event of the year, a luncheon for the graduates.

CHESS CLUB proves skill

Garinger's Chess Club has proved both its skill and interest in the time-honored game, defeating both Myers Park and Harding by scores of 5-1 and 15-1, respectively.

Success of the club has been aided by the introduction of the rating system, a method of scoring a player through his games; and the stimulation of interest in the game by weekly meetings.

"Carolina Gambit," a chess newspaper with state-wide distribution, is a new undertaking. The club is now responsible for editing the paper.

Membership is open to anyone with an interest in chess and a willingness to try to improve his playing skill.

Even at lunch, Tommy Matthews and Barry Silber concentrate on their chess abilities.

GIRLS' GYM ASSISTANTS

Many kinds of aid are given the gym teachers by student assistants. They start classes, keep rolls, lead exercises, demonstrate skills in various sports, act as referees, run errands, and perform similar necessary tasks.

In addition to helping teachers, they aid students by trying to help the girls improve their skills. The assistants also attempt to protect the students by showing them how to avoid injuring themselves and others.

BUS DRIVERS

Qualifications for Garinger's bus drivers include the ability to drive well, the right attitude toward driving, and an understanding of the need to consider the passengers' welfare at all times.

Each year the drivers are given a written test as well as a driving test to determine their fitness for the job. Their work may take from 40 minutes to 2 hours a day, in all kinds of weather. Drivers are responsible not only for getting students to and from school, but also for their safety. The student named as the best driver is awarded a savings bond at the end of the school year.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

By devoting one period daily to assisting in the Garinger library, these students help to keep it running smoothly and efficiently. Working at the desk, they help students in the checking out and returning of books. They are also responsible for aiding the librarians in processing new books, caring for magazines, and shelving books.

BIOLOGY ASSISTANTS

Keeping the biology laboratories clean and equipment organized, as well as running errands, aiding teachers during demonstrations, and helping to check objective tests are among the duties of the biology assistants. Though they receive no credit for their work, their reward is the satisfaction of knowing they are performing a valuable service to Garinger.

Students who signed up for Audio-Visual Aids render a necessary service throughout the whole year. In the fall, one day devoted to training in the various aspects of this work prepares the boys for their tasks. They are capable of running film and tape machines and taking care of minor mechanical problems. They are also responsible for delivering and picking up all equipment used by classes and school organizations.

OFFICE ASSISTANTS

Though office assistants do not receive any scholastic credit for their work, these volunter helpers render an invaluable service to Garinger's students, faculty, and administration. Their everyday tasks include helping with school attendance records, delivering messages, making telephone calls, distributing the daily school bulletins, acting as guides to visitors, and aiding students.

Members of the Garinger chapter of the United Nations Children's Fund, or UNICEF, have participated in many projects sponsored by the United Nations. Through the voluntary financial support of individuals, private organizations, and participating nations, UNICEF encourages governments to develop programs for the welfare of their children.

To raise money, Garinger club members collected contributions on Halloween, and sold Christmas cards and calendars. The club has also adopted a foreign orphan whom it supports through the Fund. Students at Garinger have an opportunity to aid the UNICEF program by supporting the club's various projects.

Other club activities include sponsoring a "Teacher Auction," participating in the Student Council Carnival, and visiting homes for the aged.

An organization composed of Garinger's varsity athletes, the Monogram Club seeks to promote a more well-rounded interscholastic athletic program. Having earned a varsity letter in any of Garinger's sports is the only requirement for membership in the club. The rigorous initiations which new members must undergo act as high points of the year for boys who are already in the Monogram Club.

Under the direction of its advisor, Mr. R. E. Cummings, the Monogram Club seeks to encourage school spirit among Garinger students and good sportsmanship among the varsity athletes themselves through its activities. Club meetings also provide an opportunity for boys engaged in different sports to get to know each other better.

GARINGERTOWN PLAYERS
develop dramatic abilities

To broaden their knowledge of dramatic works, to exchange information and ideas about drama, to share experiences, and to develop an appreciation of the drama —both as an art and a profession—these are the purposes of the newly-organized GARINGERTOWN PLAYERS. The group was organized in April, 1965, when Theresa Kuppers circulated a petition which, in its final form, included 75 names. The constitution was completed and the charter was granted by the Student Council the following December.

Membership is open to all students enrolled at Garinger. Meetings are held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. Members of the club perform different tasks such as direction, costume designing, and other necessary jobs. There is much more to drama than just the "on stage" actors; there is a job in this club for everyone. During their meetings, members have presented skits, and speakers have discussed different types of drama and production.

The club plans to present some small productions open to guests before the end of the year.

Donna Campbell, Robert Wood and Robert Moya-Mendez enjoy the informal acting in the meetings.

MEDICATS CLUB chooses new name

Formerly known as the Medical Club, the Medicats coined a new name this year in order to correlate their name with that of the Garinger team.

A fairly new organization, the Medicats Club is open to any student with a valid interest in medicine or its related fields. The Medicats' programs include outstanding speakers and a trip to a local hospital.

RADIO WORKSHOP learns techniques

Under the leadership and guidance of Mr. Gilbert S. Ballance, the organization's advisor, the Radio Workshop is designed to give students experience in the actual production of a radio broadcast. The membership includes students of Radio Production, as well as others interested in broadcasting. Production techniques and speech improvement are stressed.

ATHLETICS ...

compete

Here at Garinger are many opportunities to compete in athletics, from football to golf, track to baseball. All these sports offer boys the opportunity to learn and to grow. Here students have the chance to work as a team and be part of a worthwhile effort. In athletics they learn about sportsmanship first-hand and add to this facet of character. The opportunity to compete in athletics is perhaps one of the most meaningful because in sports the competition is keen.

A source of pride at Garinger is the fact that each sport is so well supported. Each participant gives his utmost in time and energy to try to make the Wildcats the best in every sport.

In 1965 and '66 the Wildcats have shown everyone that they have taken these opportunities and made the most of them. This year has brought many chances for the sports-minded to develop and to appreciate the skills fostered by the physical education program.

EAST MECKLENBURG

The '65 Wildcats, under the direction of Coach R. E. Cummings, opened their season with a decisive victory.

For the third consecutive year, the Wildcats defeated the Eagles of East Mecklenburg on the gridiron of Memorial Stadium.

The 'Cats outrushed the Eagles 182 yards to 73 yards. Garinger relied heavily on Freddie Ramseur to carry the ball; the big senior fullback moved through the line eleven times for a total of 61 yards.

Tackles Bobby Bell and Mark Gilleland, along with guard Steve McCorkle, were chiefly responsible for opening up the East line for the Garinger backfield to finish the season's opener with a final score of 21 to 7.

SOUTH MECKLENBURG

Sophomore quarterback Jimmy Nash came off the bench to spark the Wildcats to a 31-26 victory over the South Sabres at Memorial Stadium.

The scrambling southpaw pitched two touchdown passes—a 27-yarder to end Jim Madden and a 15-yarder to flanker Ted Williams—and engineered three other touchdown drives. His throwing on the wet field spoiled South's try for an upset.

Sharing the spotlight was another sophomore, Charlie Jetton, who scored on two touchdown drives of two and four yards and was the game's leading rusher with 46 yards on nine carries. Senior fullback Freddie Ramseur scored the final Wildcat touchdown, after being injured earlier in the game.

HUNTER HUSS

Nash teamed up with split end Monty Hileman for two touchdown strikes covering 45 and 29 yards. Halfback Kent Carlisle took a hand-off from Nash on the Wildcat 36 and was finally brought down on the Huskie 15. Two plays later Freddie Ramseur moved the ball from the six to the one, then plunged over on the next play.

The Huskies fumbled a Jim Madden punt which the Wildcats' David Gibbons recovered. Gibbons started to run the ball, but lost possession and the ball bounced out of bounds on the Hunter Huss 45-yard line.

Nash immediately took to the air, throwing to Hileman who ran the rest of the way. Dale Lawing's conversion gave the 'Cats a 14-0 lead.

Minutes later the Huskies had the ball on their own 25-yard line, but quarterback Billy Wafford fumbled. Lew Mullinax grabbed the loose ball at the 15 and carried it into the end zone.

GASTONIA ASHLEY

Fumbles and penalties produced the Wildcats' second defeat in five games. The Greenwave of Gastonia's Ashley High capitalized on these mistakes for a 14-6 conference victory.

Gastonia's first score was set up early in the half when a loose ball was recovered on the 12-yard line by a Greenwave lineman. Ashley's Mike Lunsford scored on the next play. The conversion was good, making the score 7-0.

Garinger's first and only touchdown drive came midway through the third quarter when linebacker Mark Gilleland intercepted a pass on his own 45-yard line. A combination of short passes and runs around end set up an off-tackle score by fullback Freddie Ramseur. The Errors finally caught up with the Wildcats, making their second-half drives fruitless. The Greenwave picked up a fumble in the Garinger end zone which resulted in their final, game-clinching score.

ASHEVILLE

Garinger's homecoming on October 15 displayed not only an array of beauties, but also some fine football on the part of the Wildcats. Rebounding from the previous week's loss against Gastonia, the Wildcats combined excellent ball-handling and passing into perhaps their best game of the season. Lee Edwards of Asheville came to Memorial Stadium a highly favored team, but returned home the victims of a 14-0 defeat at the hands of the 'Cats.

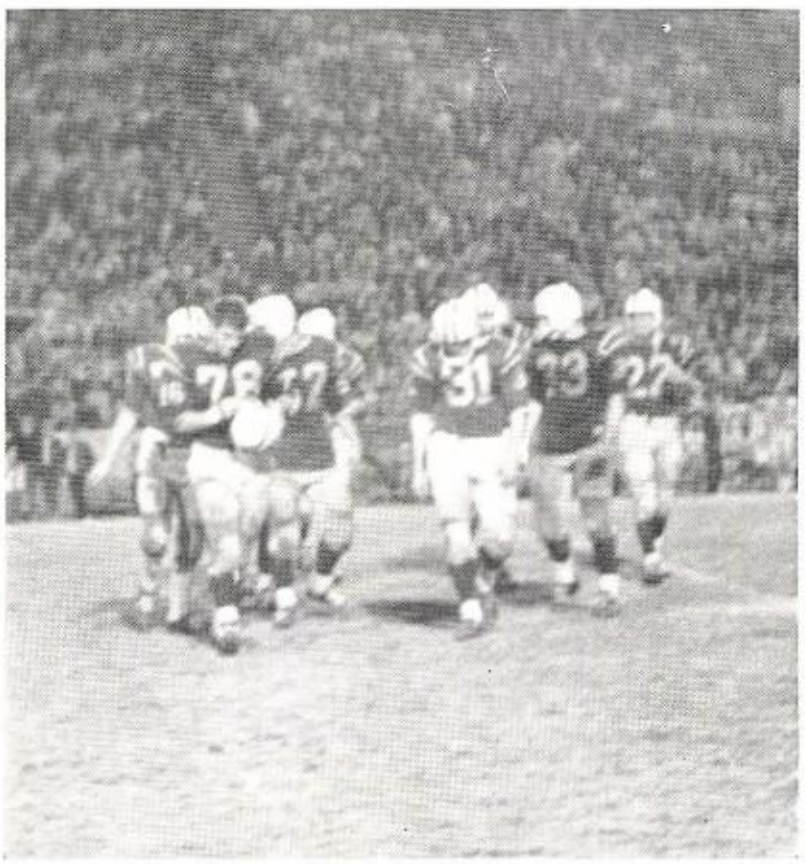
Garinger's first march to the goal line was generated when Ted Williams returned an Asheville punt to the Maroon's 45-yard line. Three plays later quarterback Jimmy Nash found Williams in the open for a 39-yard touchdown pass. Steve McCorkle put his toe to the ball, making a 7-0 half-time score.

During the festive ceremonies at half-time Cindy Bryant was named Homecoming Queen.

In the second half the Wildcat defense held the Maroons to less than 50 yards rushing. Time and time again Asheville's drives to the goal were stalled by the tough forward wall of the 'Cats.

With five and a half minutes remaining in the game, senior halfback Kent Carlisle found a hole and raced 67 yards for the final tally of the game. Again the extra point was good, making the final score 14-0.

Time out on the field.



Wildcats make a goal-line stand against Harding.

WEST

Garinger fullbacks Fred Ramseur and Charlie Jetton led the Wildcats in an 18-0 scalping party over the West Indians. With this win, Garinger clinched first place in Division 6.

Garinger's Ramseur and Jetton pounded the West defense for 213 yards. Senior Freddie Ramseur scored the first touchdown and ended up with 99 yards in 17 tries. The second Wildcat tally came by way of Bobby Medford's pass interception, and a 56-yard return. Charlie Jetton added six more points in the third quarter. The sophomore gained 114 yards in 15 carries.

West managed only 103 yards total offense against the tough Garinger defensive line.

HARDING

The city's oldest rivals met head-on and came out with a 13-13 tie.

Garinger opened the game by sending Freddie Ramseur two yards for pay dirt. Steve McCorkle's conversion made the score 7-0 in the first quarter. Early in the second quarter Harding's quarterback slipped past everyone on the field for a 25-yard run to the end zone. The point after brought the score to seven all. By halftime the 'Cats added six points to the score when Jim Nash tossed a three-yard pass to Jim Madden.

Late in the fourth quarter the Rams came from behind after an apparent interception turned into a touchdown. Ram quarterback Randy Hagler let fly a 17-yard pass into the end zone. Wildcat Monty Hileman snatched the ball from the air, but was attacked by Ram Ted Mitchell. When the dust cleared, Harding had a touchdown.

The Wildcats' offensive was backed by a superb defense. Four Harding passes were intercepted by Garinger backs. Jim Madden was kept busy in the punting department, averaging almost 40 yards on eight kicks during the game.

The tie left Garinger a 4-3-1 record in the conference with an over-all record of 5-3-2.

WESTERN FOUR A CHAMPIONSHIP

On the night of November 26 Wildcats, as well as Mustang fans, packed Memorial Stadium to see what was to prove one of the most memorable football games of the Wildcats' season.

Just a few weeks before the Mustangs had beaten the Wildcats and this night the 'Cats were out for blood.

Garinger led the Mustangs 6-0 for almost three quarters. Late in the third quarter Louis Nachman's point after touchdown put Myers Park ahead, 7-6. Sophomore quarterback Jimmy Nash tried to put the 'Cats back in the lead with three desperate passes in the final quarter of the game. Each pass was intercepted and converted into two Mustang touchdowns. Myers Park closed the game with a final score of 27-6.

Cheerleaders

Preparations for the coming school year are begun with practice, planning and painting during the month of August by Garinger's Varsity cheerleaders. The first two weeks are spent making signs for the football games, followed by two weeks of diligent practice.

Each year Garinger's cheerleaders take the out-of-town cheerleaders to dinner before the football games and buy cokes at halftime of the basketball games. To provide the money for this, the cheerleaders held a two-day paper drive during the summer.

To cultivate friendship between the schools, Garinger's cheerleaders invited the other high school cheerleaders to a picnic at Freedom Park the day of the Pigskin Preview. This proved to be an enjoyable and worthwhile experience for all concerned.

This year, Garinger hosted the traditional pajama party with the Harding cheerleaders. A new school project has been added in the form of a Garinger-South water bucket, to be kept by the winning school each year.

The duty of the cheerleaders—to instill within each student that extra spark of vitality called school spirit—requires careful planning and concentrated effort. This year, Garinger experienced three successful School Spirit Weeks with participation on the part of all Wildcats.

To raise money for a student bus to Raleigh, the cheerleaders organized a Powder Puff football games for girls. A car caravan to the stadium during School Spirit Week, boosted the spirit of every Wildcat.

During the summer, the cheerleaders obtained a new run-through to be used at the football games.

Beginning the year with a welcome pep rally for the sophomores, Garinger's Varsity cheerleaders concluded the year with a farewell assembly, featuring memories through the year.

"We back the 'Cats" is the cry of every spirited member of the Wildcat Club, a selective club for both boys and girls. The club was formed for the purpose of promoting school spirit and supporting Garinger's interscholastic athletic program. This promotion of school spirit is done in cooperation with the cheerleaders.

"Support your team" seems to be the message in the new pep books published and sold by the spirited 'Cats.

This year, the Wildcat Club published and sold a booklet containing cheers, school songs and athletic schedules. During football season, a car caravan to Gastonia was organized by the spirited 'Cats and a prize was given for the best decorated car. Everyone applauded as the flash cards designed by the Wildcat Club and operated by the Band members, spelled out "CATS."

Working with the cheerleaders, the Wildcat Club decorated for some of the home basketball games, draping crepe paper and hanging signs. An annual picnic is given for all Garinger athletes at the conclusion of the year.

J. V. Cheerleaders encourage sophomore support

Sophomore girls with a 2.0 average and plenty of pep are eligible to try-out for Junior Varsity cheerleader. After practicing for three days, seven girls were selected to represent Junior Varsity athletics at Garinger.

These J. V. cheerleaders were responsible for encouraging support at all Junior Varsity sports. Working with the Varsity cheerleaders, these girls performed a valuable service to school spirit.

Will the Wildkittens pull through?

During the 1965 baseball season, the Wildcat diamond boys brought Garinger the state championship, with a victory over Rocky Mount. Then during the summer of 1965, the same boys honored Charlotte by winning the American Legion National championship. More of the same can be expected of the '66 team.

A leader for the Wildcats this year will be David Lemonds. Beside being one of the best pitchers in the state, David hit around .400 last season. In the infield, Coach Tomanchek has Steve McElduff, Eddie Hill, Harry Owen, Monty Hileman and Steve Wilson. The outfield will be shared by Paul Hooper, Gary McClellan, David Lemonds, and Ted Williams.

The famed Garinger pitching staff will be manned by Ted William and David Lemonds. Against these two proven hurlers, conference batters are sure to have their problems.

"With these outstanding Garinger players, we should find a new trophy in the case next September," is the opinion of first baseman Monty Hileman.

Byron Osborne "moves out" when the pressure is applied.

The Wildcat cindermen advanced into the 1966 season led by senior lettermen Marty Fleming and Bryon Osborne. This year's track team is under the direction of new coach Jerry Ball. Dominating the team are sophomores, with only a few senior and junior veterans returning.

Marty Fleming, running in the mile, should turn in an excellent performance along with Bryon Osborne in the sprints. Running with Fleming in the mile event are Johnny Byrd; with Osborne in the sprints are Donnie Babcock and Lee Ginn. Ronnie Griffin and Calvin McCall are the men to watch in the hurdles. Pole vaulting for the 'Cats this season were Babcock and Ray Templeton.

Garinger's foreign exchange student this year, Jo Sandbu, has brought his athletic talents from across the sea and specialized in high jumping, throwing the discus, and heaving the shot for the Wildcats. Senior Dale Lawing took part in the shot put event.

Coach Ball has many boys that show promise and he believes that if the sophomores develop with the season the cindermen can expect a successful year.

Wrestling

The Wildcat matmen of 1965-66 suffered from a lack of manpower and ended the season without a win. The team consisted mostly of sophomores and juniors with little experience, but several of the individual matmen ended with impressive records. Captain Johnny Swinson compiled a 6-2 record while seniors Mark Gilleland and Lew Mullinax tallied 5-0 and 4-3-1 records, respectively. Juniors Kenny Benton and Eddie Morris finished with a season record of 5-2-1.

At 180 lbs. Mullinax finished second in the district and third in the state at Gilleland ended third in both tournaments at 197 lbs. Swinson finished fourth at 127 lbs. and Morris fourth at 120 lbs.

With the loss of only three lettermen, and the experience gained by the others, the future looks bright for next year, according to Coach Cummings.

Tennis

Garinger's racquet squad of 1966 anticipates a season of rebuilding under the capable direction of Coach Alton Widenhouse.

Losing the top eight players from last year's team, Coach Widenhouse expects seniors Jimmy Thomas and Spencer Edwards, along with juniors Eddie Morris and Gray Wilson – the only returning lettermen – to carry most of the burden.

This year the Wildcat netmen will find it a difficult task to equal last year's team, which had an overall 14-4 record and finished second in the Western AAAA.

The Wildcats will compete in 16 matches this season, of which only eight are conference matches. Competition for the year is expected to be the toughest yet. If the netmen gain confidence and skill along with their experience, the team is likely to finish in good standing at the conference championship, according to Coach Widenhouse, who is girding for a long pull but ultimate success and proficiency.

Marty Fleming sets the pace for cross-country runners.

Although the Garinger Cross-Country team had only nine members, it finished the season as the best in Garinger's history. Led by Marty Fleming and Tom Gibbons, the Harriers won two out of five season meets, and placed fourth in the conference meet, fifth in the Wake Forest Invitational, and eighth in the state championship meet at Chapel Hill.

Marty Fleming led Garinger in every meet, and placed eighth in the state. In the Wake Forest meet, which invited schools from three states, Marty placed ninth.

Coach Edelman says, "This is the best cross-country team in Garinger's history. We had better balance this year than ever before." Coach Edelman still has high hopes for next year's team as he lost only two seniors.

GOLF draws sophomores

With the return of four of the top six golfers of last year's team, the Wildcats are hoping for their best season ever. This year's players, led by Frank Haislip, David Huntly, Jeff Borthen, and John Thompson will try to improve on last year's seven-win-six-loss record for coach Bob Godwin. Garinger's golf future is brighter as a result of the unusually large turnout from the sophomore class.

Membership of the National Honor Society is composed of juniors and seniors who are superior in scholarship and have demonstrated outstanding qualities of leadership, character, and service. To qualify for membership, a student must have maintained at least a 3.25 scholastic average during three consecutive semesters at Garinger and he must have achieved an index number placing him among the highest-ranking students in his class. He is admitted to the society only after approval of the faculty.

It is the purpose of the society to recognize outstanding students and to encourage their growth in the qualities upon which membership is based. The inductions, which are held twice a year, in September and February, emphasize the four characteristics of a good student. In September the society asked Richardson Preyer to speak on these qualities, and in February members of the society spoke.

Each year the Honor Society presents a scholarship to one of its own members on Honors and Awards Day. This year the society successfully produced a womanless wedding to obtain necessary funds for this award.

One of the greatest honors that can be given to a member of the junior class is that of being a commencement marshal. These students are outstanding members of their class, nominated for their position of honor and responsibility by homeroom teachers, and chosen through secret ballot by a faculty committee. The chief qualities considered in their selection are scholarship, citizenship, service, and personal appearance.

Much of the credit for the beauty and dignity of Garinger's commencement exercises belongs to the marshals, whose organization and management of the events helps them to move smoothly. They are present at both major commencement programs, the baccalaureate service and the graduation exercises, distributing programs and escorting guests to their seats. The marshals choose the chief marshals from their own number, and those so honored escort seniors to their seats and, later, to the stage to receive their diplomas.

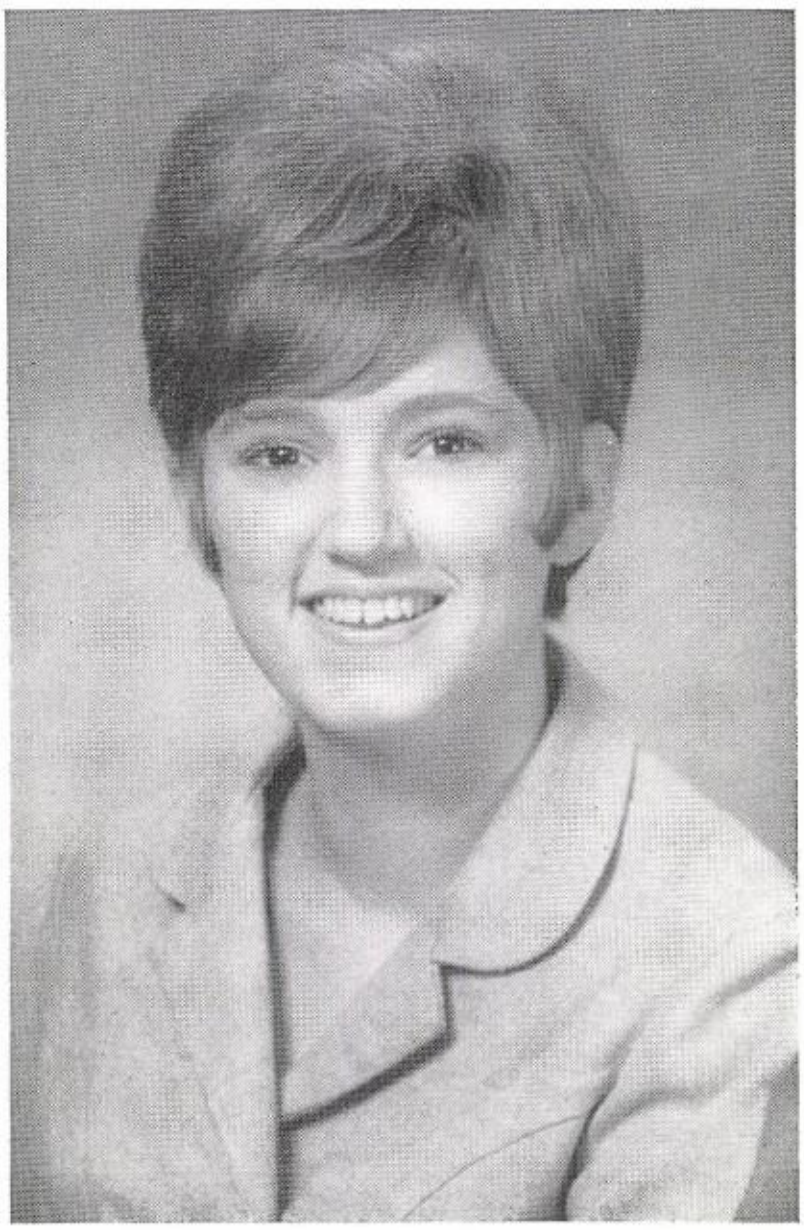
Harvard Book Award

The Harvard Book award is presented by the Harvard club of Charlotte to a rising senior who is in the college preparatory program.

This year's award was presented to Bill Lachicotte for superior scholarship and outstanding qualities of character. Bill was selected to receive this honor by the principal and the members of the faculty. The purpose of the Harvard Book award is to inspire each student who receives it and to encourage the student to continue his achievements throughout his years in college. It may also help him to choose the principles and standards by which he will live.

Susan McCorkle



Miss Hi Miss

Susan McCorkle, a junior, was chosen by her classmates as Garinger's Miss Hi Miss of 1966. The Johnsonian, the newspaper published by the students of Winthrop college, honors a group of outstanding North Carolina and South Carolina high school girls each year. The selection of these girls is based upon qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and high standards.

The Miss Hi Misses have an opportunity to become acquainted with many other girls chosen for this honor when they are the guests of Winthrop college for a weekend. Pictures and stories of them are presented in the special Miss Hi Miss edition of the Johnsonian.

D.A.R. Award

On Honors and Awards Day, Carol Morris received the D.A.R. Citizenship pin. She was chosen by the senior girls and sponsored by the Battle of Charlotte chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Carol was judged on the basis of personality, leadership, scholarship, and citizenship.

As a guest of the sponsoring D.A.R. chapter, Carol has enjoyed tours of Salisbury and Old Salem with other D.A.R. Good Citizens from all over the state. A highlight of the year was a dinner at which the D.A.R. Award winners from seven local high schools were guests of honor. Each girl gave a five-minute talk on what being a D.A.R. Good Citizen meant to her.

Chosen from a group of forty outstanding students from the Charlotte-Mecklenburg high schools are twelve semi-finalists in competition for the Morehead scholarships awarded by the University of North Carolina. Garinger senior David McKnight was included in this group.

Academic excellence, outstanding citizenship, participation in extracurricular activities, and physical vigor are the chief criteria considered by the county committee in selecting the finalists. In order to be considered by the committee, David had to be recommended by his own school's counselors and faculty.

Barbro Kaustell

Foreign Exchange Student

BARBRO KAUSTELL

International goodwill is promoted by the Charlotte Foreign Exchange Student program which offers the youth of various countries the opportunity for broader knowledge and greater understanding. Barbro Kaustell, of Helsinki, Finland, is spending this year as the "daughter" of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Wilkinson and as the "sister" of Garinger student Lynn Wilkinson.

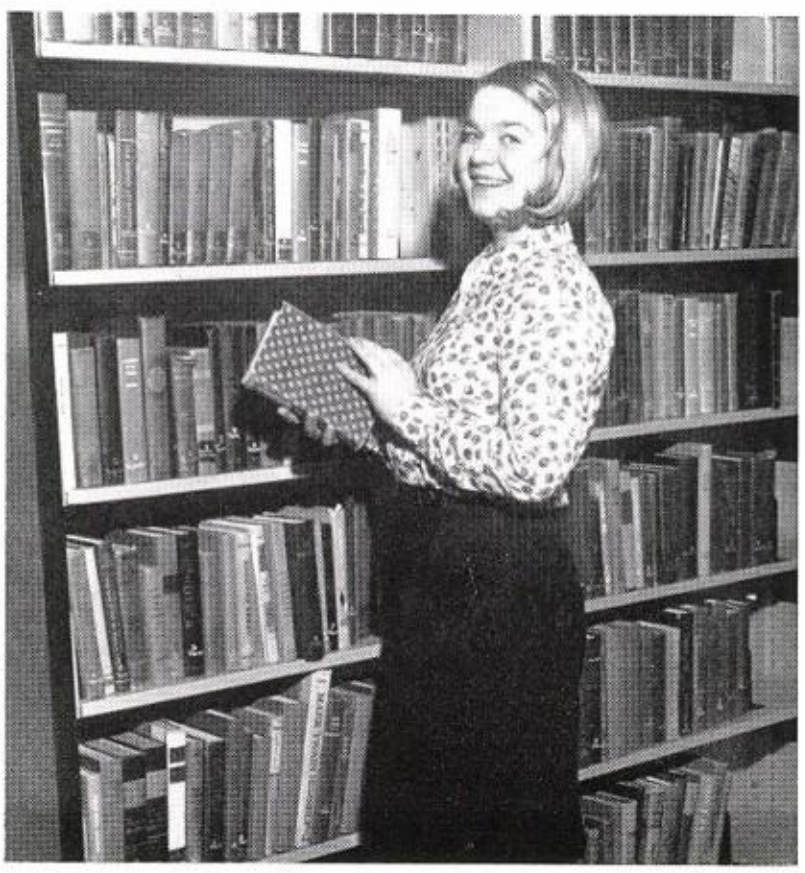
Barbro is a member of the Centrusa club and the Girls' Good Sports club. She has also been busy telling Charlotte about Helsinki, as she has spoken to the local chapter of the National Honor Society, addressed various schools, civic and church groups, and mingled daily with a host of new friends at Garinger.

This summer Barbro plans to go to Colorado with the local Young Life group. This will give her a chance to see more of the United States.

Barbro was asked what she thought of her stay in America and she summed it up enthusiastically in these few words: "Everything is great."

"There are times to remember and times to . . ."

Being an exchange student is not all pleasure!!



Foreign Exchange Student

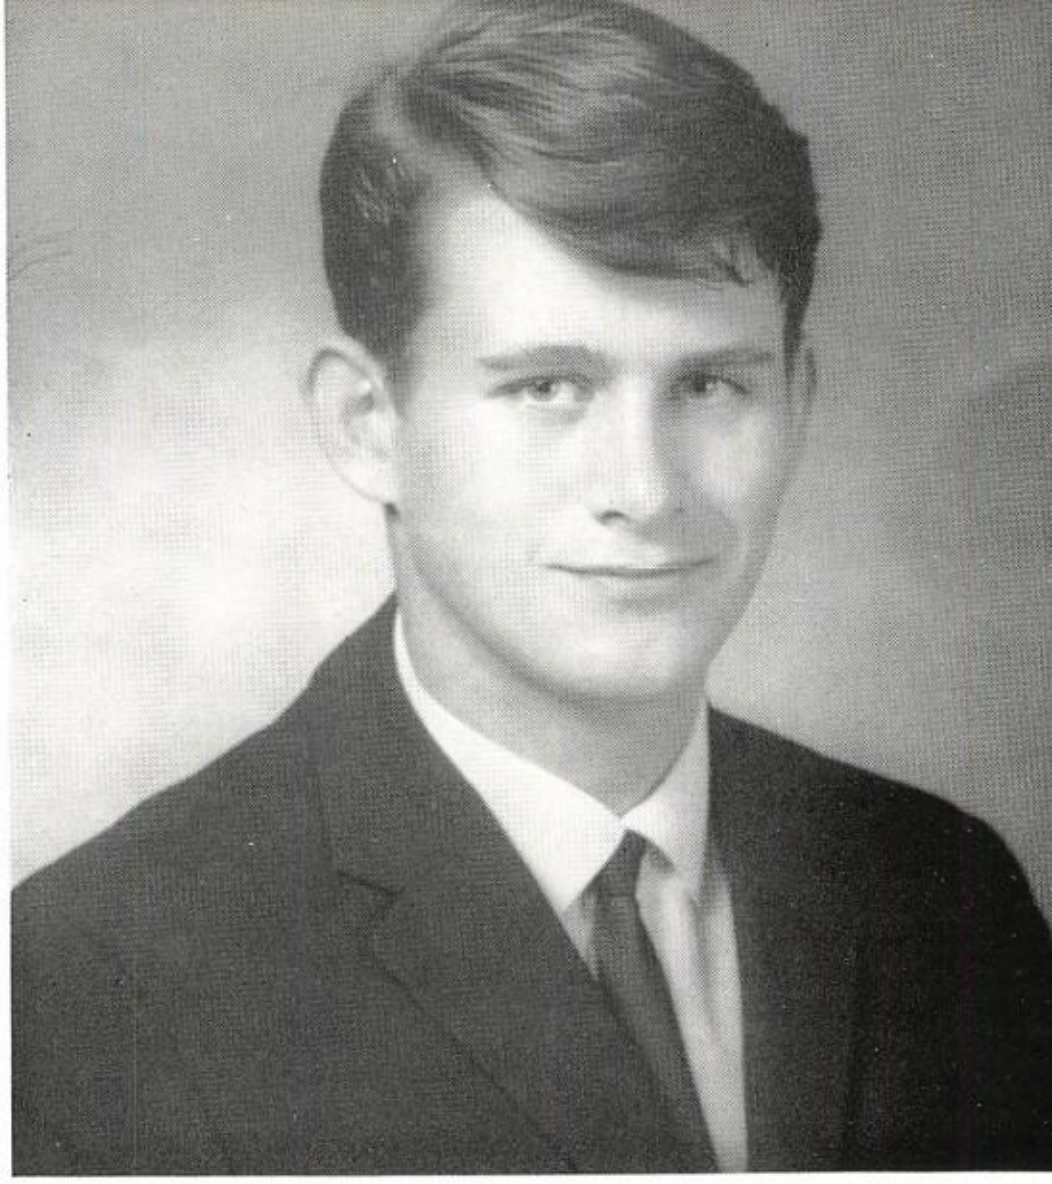
JO SANDBU

On August 22, 1965, Jo Sandbu arrived in Charlotte from Hauslum, Norway. The following week he began the school year as a foreign exchange student at Garinger.

Jo was greatly impressed with the number of wide roads and the large amount of traffic he found. He was also impressed by the August weather—"It was too hot."

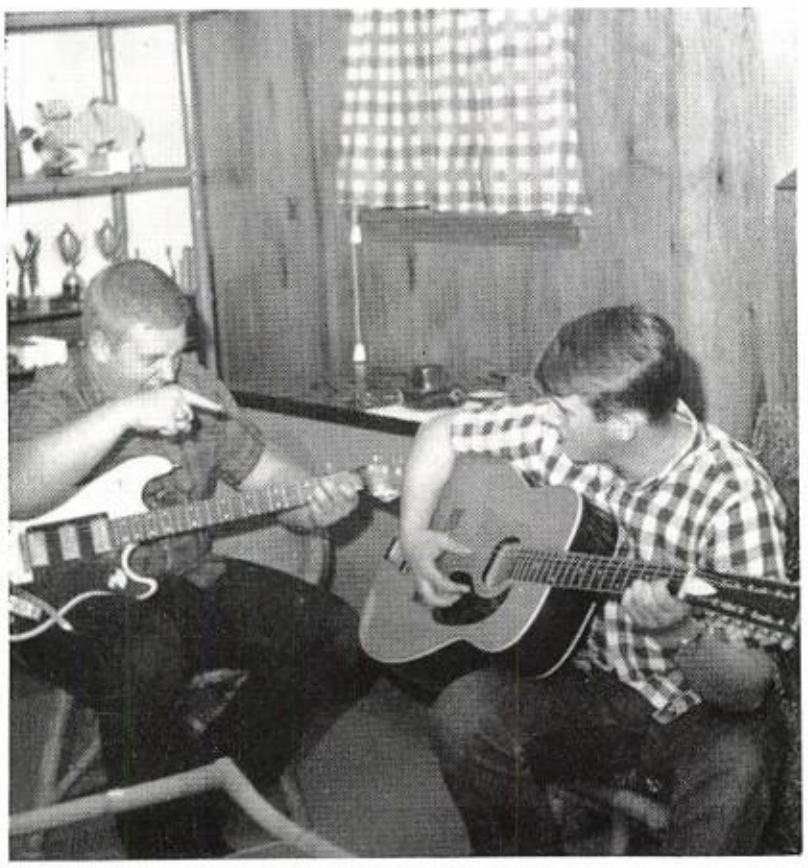
At first Jo missed his homeland, but soon he discovered, "There is not much difference between people here and there." He is now quite at home with his American parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Willis, and their son, Roy. The one thing that he still misses is—"the snow."

Jo has enjoyed the parties, dinners, Rotary club meetings, school clubs, and his classes here at Garinger. His favorite extracurricular activity was a skiing trip to Boone. Jo has been a superior student and has been inducted into the National Honor Society. Most important to the other students at Garinger is the place he has made in their hearts. It will be hard to let him go.

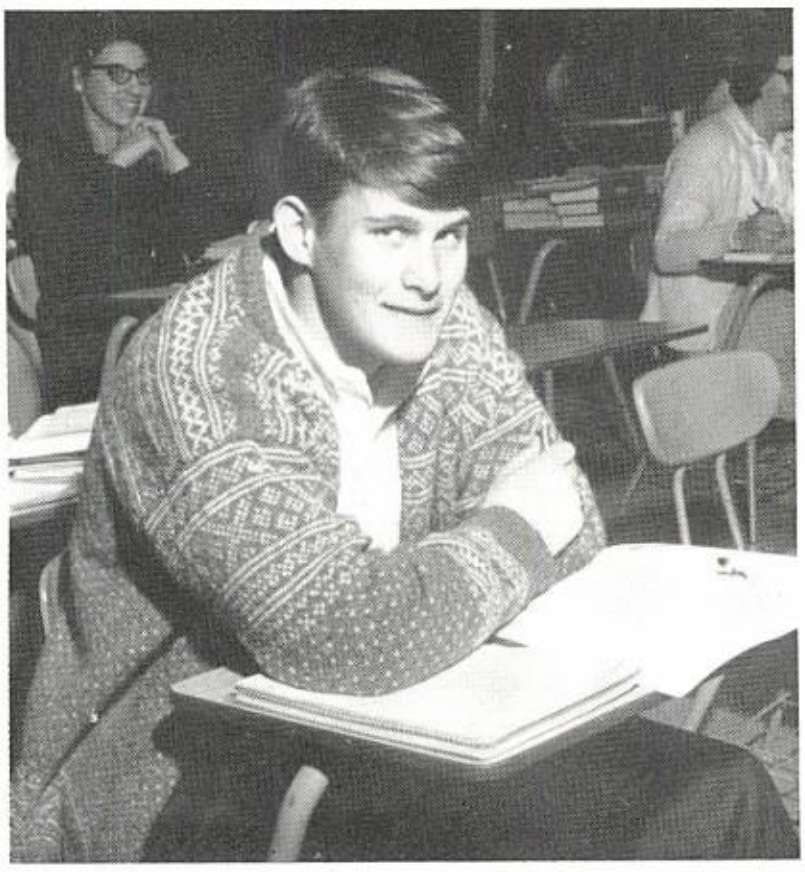


Jo Sandbu

"It's not as exciting as skiing but it's lots warmer."



"Does my ski sweater give me away?"



SANDRA SANDERS

Garinger Foreign Exchange Student

"This summer I learned a lot about people, and I grew up a lot because I was on my own. I learned enough so that I can see the United States in a different manner and I appreciate it more." Sandra Sanders, one of Garinger's Foreign Exchange students, spent the summer of 1965 in Mendoza, Argentina, as the "daughter" of Dr. and Mrs. José Domenech and as the "sister" of Anna Maria, José Luis and Alberto.

While in Mendoza, Sandra went to many parties, and took trips with her "family" to climb mountains, to ski, and to see the country. She also attended school with her "sister," Anna Maria.

Sandra has shared her experiences with others by giving talks at churches, for civic and school clubs and classes. Thus she has won American friends for Argentina and while in Mendoza, helped to win Argentine friends for her own country.

Garinger Foreign Exchange Student

DAVID McKNIGHT

As the advocates of different political ideologies struggle for supremacy, and as better means of communication bring the different people of the world closer together, a growing need for international understanding is promoted by Charlotte's Foreign Exchange Student program. This program sends carefully-chosen Charlotte students to live as "sons" and "daughters" of families in foreign countries.

One of Garinger's Foreign Exchange students, David McKnight, spent the summer of 1965 in Chile as the "son" of Edelfrida and Bruno Zeiser Dünner, of Santiago, and as the "brother" of their three children, Oscar, Vera, and Victor. He shared all the different facets of their lives: late dinners, card games conducted in German and Spanish, and school. Meanwhile, David was winning friends and respect for the United States by giving Chileans an accurate picture of our American way of life. David has won American friends for Chile through enthusiastic conversation, talks to civic and school groups, and articles in the Rambler.

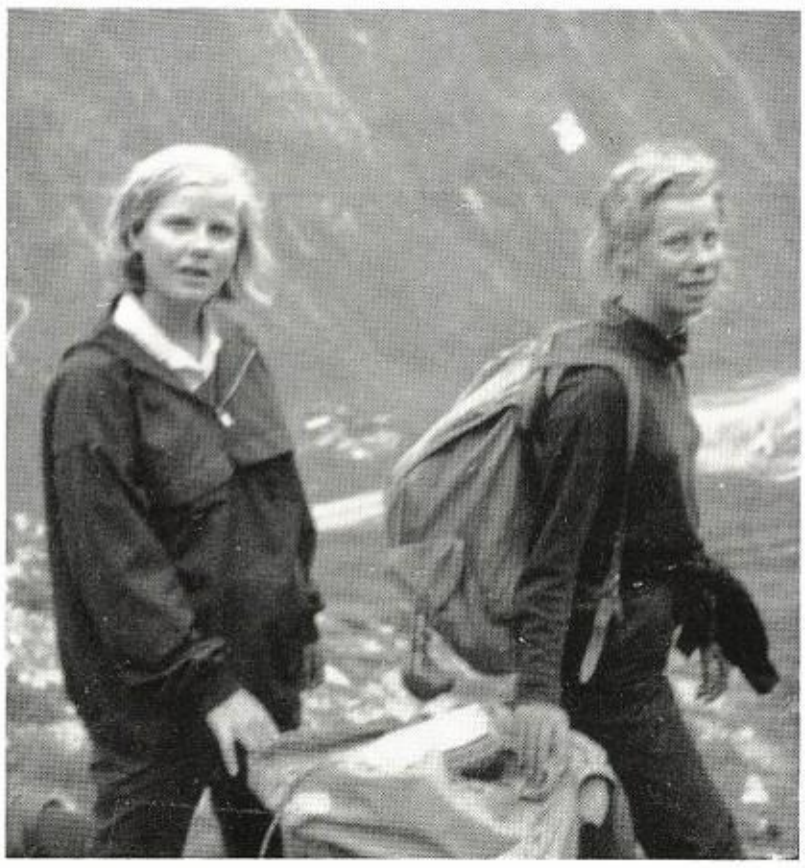
Garinger Foreign Exchange Student

SYBIL HUSKEY

Sybil Huskey, foreign exchange student during the summer of 1965, summed up her experience in these words, "I returned with a second set of friends, a second family, and a second country. I had learned to love another country and its people and in the process I developed a deeper appreciation for the United States."

Sponsored by the Charlotte Exchange Student program, Sybil lived in Asker, Norway, with the Per Loranges and their daughters, Helene (19), and Anne (14). During her two-month stay she was able to participate in all the summer activities as "the American daughter" in the family. From her varied experiences, which included a trip on a glacier and learning to sail, she was able to learn about many facets of life in Norway, and most important, to learn to know the Norwegian people.

"Mountain climbing isn't all that easy."



"With a knapsack on my back . . ."

Members of the Foreign Exchange student committee and Mrs. Huntley, their advisor, are responsible for making the stay of Foreign Exchange students in Charlotte as pleasant and meaningful as possible. They make arrangements for host families with whom the students live. The committee sells note cards during the year to help finance Foreign Exchange committee projects and pays for the visiting students' lunches and fees for student activities.

The committee also helps with the selection of the three Garinger students who may be chosen to spend next summer in the home of a family in another country. This year the committee has chosen Marie Lewis, Buddy Shaia, and John Crowder to compete for this honor.

Beauty Nominees

Each year the student body at Garinger selects a group of young ladies who will be recognized and remembered as the beauties of their high school years. In the selection of these girls, beauty is not all-important. A lovely face must be accompanied by the warm personality and poise which make not merely a pretty girl, but a beauty.

Choosing these girls is not an easy task. Each homeroom must first submit one name as a candidate for class beauty. A ballot containing these names is presented to each class for voting. From this balloting, fourteen beauty finalists are chosen. This year's senior class chose Phyllis Padgett, Cindy Bryant, Sandra Marshall, Becky Whitener, Bobbie Short, and Scarlette Estridge as its finalists. Junior class finalists were Susan McCorkle, Linda Driver, Gay Isenhour, and Nancy Easterling. Larolyn Seegers, Eve Fragakis, Barbara Skidmore, and Cathy Covington were the sophomore selections.

Traditionally, portraits of the girls chosen are submitted for judging to someone in the field of entertainment or art. From them the judge selects one as Senior Superlative Beauty, and six others—two to represent each class in the feature section of Snips and Cuts.

Carrousel Princess

Each year Charlotte's beautiful Carrousel ushers in the Christmas season. Princesses from high schools in both North and South Carolina are presented in the colorful parade, and from their number is chosen the queen of the next Carrousel.

The Garinger seniors annually honor one of the loveliest members of their class by choosing her to represent them and the school in the Carrousel Parade. The young lady selected must possess the qualities of poise, grace, and a regal bearing, as well as beauty. With these qualifications in mind, Sandra Marshall was chosen as Garinger's Carrousel Princess for 1965.

Miss Sandra Marshall

Homecoming Queen

Cindy Bryant was named Garinger's Homecoming Queen for 1965-66. She was chosen by the senior members of the football team and reigned at Garinger's seventh annual homecoming game at Memorial Stadium, and at the homecoming dance.

Cindy did not know that she had been chosen queen until she was presented for the coronation ceremony, which was the chief event at half-time. The crown was placed on her head by the former Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Elmer H. Garinger, for whom our school was named.

The 1966 Snips & Cuts

The long-awaited moment, happy but sad.

Home again, Home again jiggedy jog.

Did I really hit that shot?

How time flies when the Wildcats are backed by the cheerleaders!

Acknowledgments

The SNIPS AND CUTS staff and the students of Garinger High School will always be grateful to the many people who have contributed so much time and effort toward the production of our 1966 yearbook. Their co-operation has helped us to capture the spirit of the year and to record it in Volume LVII of SNIPS AND CUTS.

We sincerely thank all of the following:

Mrs. Olga Humm, Adviser.

Mr. Harrie S. Keck, of Observer Printing House, our publisher.

Mr. B. B. Renfrow, of Delmar Studio, underclass photographer.

Mrs. Virginia Christenbury, Mrs. Jean Howarth, Miss Bernadette Scott, of Beverly Studio, senior photographers.

Mr. A. Haynes Dunlap and Mr. James Small, group photographers.

Mr. Edward Sanders and the Garinger Faculty.

Homeroom Representatives.

The Lettermen, judges for the beauty section.

Our advertisers.
